BATTLE OF BOLINAS — Toiling under emergency lights, volunteers, county workers and Standard Oil employees struggled to blot up oil with hay and string booms across the inlet of Bolinas Lagoon. It was a major battle in the war against the big spill of Jan. 18, 1971.

Anniversary Of Oil Spill

By JEFF GREER

No Bay Area happening since the earthquake and fire of 1906 brought so many people into volunteer action and caused so much emotionalism than the news that thousands of gallons of black, tarry oil were coating the beaches and the birds of Marin and San Francisco counties.

It all began in a dense fog in the Golden Gate shortly before 2 a.m. Jan. 18, 1971, when two Standard Oil Co. tankers collided. The inbound steamer, the Arizona Standard, crunched into the side of the outbound Oregon Standard. Approximately 800,000 gallons of heavy bunker oil spilled through a gash in the Oregon Standard's hull.

As dawn broke, the shifting tides carried the oil far and wide, into San Francisco Bay and outside the Golden Gate. Currents swept it as far north as the southerly end of the Point Reyes National Seashore.

The waves began bringing helpless, oil-soaked waterfowl ashore. Others, losing their buoyancy before they reached land, sank.

In retrospect, they probably were luckier than the ones washed ashore. More than four of each five birds rescued died within a few days, despite herculean efforts by thousands of volunteers to care for them.

In the early stages of the battle against the oil, things "just sort of happened," as recalled by Clerin W. Zumwalt of Greenbrae, a naturalist at the Audubon Canyon Ranch at Bolinas.

Bolinas Lagoon was one of the high points of the battle. There, hundreds of long-haired youths toiled side by side with hard-hat construction workers, stringing booms across the inlet, scooping oil and straw off the beaches and wading out in the bonechilling water to rescue birds in the foggy daylight. After night fell, they stayed on the job under the glare of emergency lights.

At 2:45 a.m. Jan. 20, the incoming tide swept away two of the three booms put out to keep oil from fouling the lagoon, a nesting place for the rare great blue heron and other waterfowl.

The battle appeared lost, but as dawn came it was found that surprisingly little oil invaded the lagoon.

Northern Schools Rule Due

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court agreed today to rule for the first time in a school desegregation dispute involving a non-southern city.

The Court will hear arguments in the case from Denver, Colo., later this term and then follow with a written decision.

The handling of integration in the city's school system has failed to satisfy either Negro parents who initiated legal action in 169 or the local school board authorities.

It was the first northern school case to be accepted for review by the Court.

In other actions, the Court:

—Agreed to decide in a Portland, Ore., case whether the constitutional right of free speech gives protesters the blanket privilege to distribute political pamphlets and conduct rallies on private business properties such as suburban shopping centers. The Court ruled in 1968 that centers may not prohibit such activities directly aimed at stores or businesses at the center itself but has never ruled whether non-related demonstrations can be banned.

—Accepted for decision a case from North Carolina on whether a property owner is entitled to sue the government for damages caused by sonic boom from military jet planes.

—Permitted backers of the late Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski to participate in the government's effort to overturn the election of United Mineworkers Union president W. A. (Tony) Boyle but refused by a 6 to 1 vote to permit them to raise new challenges at this point in the court proceedings.

The Denver school case had come to the Court once before but was not accepted for review.

U. S. District Judge William E. Doyle of Denver has written four opinons in the complex case, which was before the Supreme Court about a year ago. At that time, the school board was attempting to block further changes until the high court decided a test case from Charlotte, N.C. The justices refused to order a delay.

When the suit was initiated, the system consisted of 9 senior high schools, 17 junior high schools and 92 elementary schools.

The complainants divided their case in two parts. The first part attacked a school board action rescinding desegregation resolutions of an earlier board pertaining to Northeast Denver schools.

Doyle found the board's action tended to perpetuate racial segregation and that the rescinding was therefore unconstitutional. He mentioned boundary gerrymandering, school construction, pupil transfers and other methods as a basis for his decision, and ordered the principles of the original resolutions carried out. The 10th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed.

As to other schools in the system, the complaint alleged that the authorities deliberately created and maintained racial and ethnic segregation in a "core" area. Doyle found the allegations not true but granted relief to 12 schools on the ground that they were offering minorities an education unequal to that of whites. He rejected the Negro parents' attack on the "neighborhood" school policy.

The 10th Circuit reversed the part of Doyle's ruling in favor of the parents and affirmed the rest.

2 Youths Charged In Courthouse Fire

Boys, 16, Also Linked To Other Arson Cases

Two 16-year-old San Rafael youths have been charged in Marin Juvenile Court with setting the fire that destroyed the old San Rafael Courthouse last year.

It was learned that one of the youths, David Louis Hendrickson, 16, of 130 Villa Avenue, has been removed from Marin Juvenige Hall as a disciplinary problem and is being held at Marin County Jail.

Police withheld the identities of both youths on orders of Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court, but Hendrickson was identified through other sources.

The century-old courthouse was destroyed in a spectacular fire May 25. San Rafael fire department said the blaze was deliberately set, but exactly how had not been determined, a spokesman said today.

The two boys were linked to the courthouse blaze after authorities said they were connected with two other cases of arson Aug. 15 at the Albert Arcade, a short distance from the old courthouse.

The two also have been linked to a minor arson fire at the courthouse two weeks before the blaze that swept through the historic landmark, San Rafael police said.

Hendrickson was arrested Sept. 16, police said, but the other youth has remained free pending disposition of the charges against him.

San Rafael Police Inspector Bart W. Stinson said the two appeared separately in juvenile court in connection with the Albert Arcade fires, but have not yet received hearings in the courthouse fire. The outcome of the Albert Arcade case was not disclosed.

Stinson said fingerprints of the pair were found at the Albert Arcade and fingerprints of one of them were found at the site of the earlier fire at the courthouse.

The Albert Arcade fires in August were apparently started by pulling curtains through mail slots and lighting them, Stinson said.

The fires were at First Federal Savings and Loan Association and Benevest finance company, both at the arcade, 847 Fourth Street.

Following the courthouse blaxe, arson inspectors said they found suspicious material, and theorized that a flammable liquid may bave been poured on the floor and ignited in the old sheriff's department in the basement of the building.

The flames roared up an elevator shaft — once used as a hanging scaffold — and into the eaves of the three-story building's attic.

Some 40 firemen battled the blaze for three hours before it was brought under control.

Novatan Chosen As First Police Chief For Tiburon

Lafferty, 40, will take the post Feb. 1, giving him four months to organize the department. The force will take over July 1 from sheriff's deputies now providing police services under a $145,000 contract with the County of Marin.

City Mgr. Bert Balmer, announcing the hiring of Lafferty this morning, estimated the cost of cranking up the new department at $40,000 this fiscal year, and about $180,000 next fiscal year.

Lafferty will be paid $17,400 a year in his new job, up from his current salary of $16,296 as one of two lieutenants in the Novato department.

He is an original member of the Novato department, joining it as a patrolman in 1960. He was promoted to sergeant in 1963 and to lieutenant in 1969.

A native of Indianapolis, Ind., he has lived in California for the past 25 years.

MAURICE D. LAFFERTY
New Tiburon chief

Lafferty said he was especially delighted to get the opportunity to start a new department: "That's what is so exciting about the whole thing — to start the department from the ground floor."

His first duty literally will be to remodel the ground floor of Tiburon's city offices to accommodate the department, which will oblige the city council to meet instead at Del Mar School after its chambers become police offices.

Balmer said Lafferty also will be responsible for purchasing supplies and equipment, including patrol cars and hiring personnel.

Lafferty acknolwedged he will look first to other Marin police departments for personnel, noting "they're already familiar with Marin County." Competitive examinations will be given to hire the new department's employees, eventually to total 12 uniformed officers and three civilian clerk-dispatchers.

Balmer said the new depart-

TV Violence Linked To Behavior

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A panel of 12 scientists reported to Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld today there is evidence that television violence causes aggression among children predisposed to that kind of behavior in the first place.

In a 275-page report, Steinfeld's scientific advisory committee on television and social behavior said the scientific data was neither consistent nor conclusive.

But it said there was enough evidence to indicate a relation between violence on television and aggressive behavior among children who already tended toward aggressive behavior.

It also said the response of children to TV violence depended upon the framework in which it was presented, including whether there were parental explanations, the outcome and nature of the violence and whether it was seen as fantasy or reality.

The committee was given 2½ years to make the report at a cost of $1 million. It also was given instructions not to make policy recommendations.

The findings, the committee said, "converge in three respects: a preliminary and tentative indication of a causal

Pay Panel Rules On Price Lists

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Price Commission has ruled that retailers doing less than $200,000 business each year will not have to post a list of thair base prices.

The commission's weekend decision, however, still requires the retailers affected to make base price information available to customers who ask for it.

Bypass Threatened By Ecologists' Suit

Conservationists seeking a "less damaging freeway" have filed suit to halt construction of the long-awaited Highway 101 bypass in Novato until a study is made of its environmental impact.

"Should the court rule that additional environmental studies are necessary, j delay in the project of one or two years can be expected," said Leo Trombatore, deputy district engineer for the state Division of Highways.

The $14 million, 5.2-mile bypass, years in the planning, is designed to eliminate a traffic bottleneck in downtown Novato where Highway 101 bisects the business district.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court in San Francisco Friday by Environmental Law Fund of Marin, a nonprofit corporation, which provides financial and legal support to individuals and organizations concerned with protecting the environment, and three Novato residents.

Individual plaintiffs are Jerry A. Cannon, head of the North Marin Unit of the Marin Conservation League; Irving Perlman of 1581 Hill Road, and Ronald M. Wilhelm of 21 Washington Street.

A hearing on whether an injunction should be issued is scheduled to be heard Jan. 28, only five days before bids for the bypass are scheduled to be opened.

The plaintiffs are seeking an environmental impact statement under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1970.

They said the state has denied a request for the study on grounds that plans for the bypass were completed before the act was passed.

Douglas P. Ferguson, attorney for the plaintiffs, said several recent court decisions have required such statements regarding federal highway projects begun before the effective date of the act.

Cannon said the decision to seek an environmental study resulted from "growing community concern" over proposed design and construction methods.

"Of particular concern are the alignment of certain interchanges and the 'trenching' method under which approximately 400,000 cubic yards of mud would have to be disposed and even larger amount of new fill created by excavation of existing hills," he said.

The suit was filed three days after the Novato City Council recommended county approval of plans by Ghilotti Bros. of San Rafael to remove up to 1.2 million cubic yards of fill from an old quarry on Mount Burdell for the bypass.

Move To Block Bank Merger

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Justice Department today filed a civil antitrust suit to block the merger of two of the nation's major banks, Wells Fargo Bank of San Francisco and First Western Bank and Trust Company of Los Angeles.

Attorney General John N. Mitchell said the suit charges that the proposed merger would violate antitrust laws by eliminating actual and potential competition between the two California banks.

Mitchell said the antitrust action was filed in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

Guilt Ruling On Gambling Czar Stays

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court let stand today lower court decisions that a reputed underworld kingpin freely pleaded guilty to charges of masterminding a $20 million-a-year interstate gambling ring.

In a brief order, the court refused to review the judicial findings appealed by Samuel Rizzo (Sam the Plumber) DeCalvacante, who claimed the government coerced him into making the guilty plea.

DeCalvacante, named in Senate testimony and Justice Department files as a top leader in the New Jersey mob, was indicted with 52 others in December, 1969, for running what Attorney General John N. Mitchell called one of the biggest gambling syndicates in the country.

The indictment —to which DeCalvacante pleaded not guilty —came two months after he had been convicted of extortion conspiracy in another case and sentenced to 15 years in prison.

In January, 1971, the government advised DeCalvacante it would seek "special dangerous offender" sanctions against him in the gambling case —possibly quintupling his maximum sentence from 5 to 25 years —if he were convicted. But the government prosecutor said that he would "not oppose" a suspended sentence if DeCalvacante pleaded guilty.

The defendant did so a few minutes later, assuring Judge Leonard I. Garth of the federal district court at Newark the plea was voluntary and that he had been neither threatened nor promised as an inducement to change his plea. Neither DeCalvacante nor the government told the court of their private conversation.

Dockworker Strike Resumes— Pickets At Major Coast Ports

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Picket lines were established at all major West Coast ports today in resumption of a dockworkers strike which crippled shipping for 100 days last fall.

Marathon talks aimed at settling the dispute were broken off, but both sides said they expected them to resume.

The longshoremen had been sent back to work last October under a Taft-Hartley injunction which expired on Christmas. They extended the deadline for a renewal of a strike until 8 a.m. today.

After the deadline passed pickets were established at the piers in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and San Diego.

Few longshoremen were scheduled to work Monday because shippers, anticipating the strike, had slowed down operations.

Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union told newsmen the talks were still deadlocked on containerization, a guaranteed annual income for longshoremen, and many other issues.

Although the strike "is officially resumed," Bridges said he expects negotiations to continue. He also said he expects the government to try to force his men back to work.

He said if the administration had not interrupted the strike with its earlier Taft-Hartley Act, the dispute "would be settled by now."

J. Curtis Counts, chief federal mediator, has warned that the Nixon administration will move promptly to get congressional action forcing the dockworkers back on the job.

Bridges said employers had agreed to a $5.2 million annual fund to guarantee every class "A" longshoreman at least 36 hours pay per week and class "B" men 18 hours.

The shippers had also agreed to pay a $1 per ton "royalty" on cargo coming to the docks in containers not packed by longshoremen. The deadlock dveloped over whether the container royalty would go into the $5.2 million guaranteed-pay fund or be in addition to that, according to Bridges.

Ed Flynn, chief negotiator for the PMA, said the "jurisdictional issue" over container packing had been settled but that the shippers could not pay the "royalty" for containers in addition to the guaranteed wage.

A spokesman for the PMA said 75 ships were now on the coast. At the height of the earlier strike as many as 200 vessels were idle. Military cargo is not affected by the strike.

Counts earlier warned both the shippers and International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union that a resumption of the walkout that idled shipping in 24 West Coast ports would be "devastating," and that the Nixon administration would move quickly to force a settlement if a walkout occurred.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Protection Move

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional committee will be deciding soon —N'probably this week — which of the long list of presidential candidates will be given Secret Service protection.

After Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was assassinated during the last campaign, Congress rushed through legislation to provide such protection for both the contenders for the nomination in each party and, as in the past, the final official candidate of each party.

And last year Congress gave the Secret Service permission to hire 360 new agents — figuring the service would wind up guarding six or eight candidates. As it turned out, however, there are now 13 announced and presumably serious major candidates for President Nixon's job.

New Treatment

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A treatment for heroin addiction which does not rely on methadone or other habit-forming drugs but instead on carbon dioxide has been shown to be effective in tests at Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital here.

Preliminary study results indicate that the treatment — known as Carbon Dioxide Inhalation Therapy (CDT) — "demonstrably removes the psychological and physical dependence on heroin for the short term," according to Wharton Shober, president of Hahnemann.

Observations of 12 hardcore heroin addicts undergoing CDT treatment offer "some evidence that it may remove drug dependence for the long term also," Shober said.

Temporary Power

ACCRA (UPI) — Ghana's new military leader, Col. I.K. (Mike) Acheampong, told foreign diplomats today his take-over of the government was only a "temporary measure" and that political power would be restored to a "democratically elected civilian government."

This, he said, would take place "as soon as circumstances permit."

Speaking from a prepared statement at his Burma military camp headquarters four miles outside Accra, the 41-year-old colonel told foreign diplomats Ghana would practice a policy of "nonalignment and positive neutralism."

Fuel Spill

ROCKY POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Up to 10,000 gallons of black low-sulphur fuel oil, spilled into Long Island Sound, began to wash ashore on the North Shore of Long Island over the weekend, leaving black marks along a 25-mile stretch of beaches between Eaton's Neck and Rocky Point, N.Y.

Coast Guard officials said that the oil appeared to come from a single source, as yet undetermined.

Allende Defeat

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Opponents of President Salvador Allende trounced his Popular Unity candidates in two congressional elections Sunday. The outcome was interpreted as a "warning" to the government by opposition politicans.

The opposition whipped Popular Unity candidates in the races for senator from the states of O'Higgins and Colchagua and the deputy election in Linares to climax a bitter campaign in the mining and agricultural areas south of Santiago.

Fire Exchanged

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — A British army patrol exchanged fire with snipers today along the border with the Irish Republic, an army spokesman said.

There were no injuries on either side when gunmen shooting from inside the Republic opened fire on the patrol near Garrisson, County Fermanagh, the spokesman said.

A British army spokesman said troops continued their roundup of suspected Irish Republican Army IRA members in the Belfast area and detained 11 men in a 24-hour period.

Reds To Meet

PARIS (UPI) — Nortp Vietnam will meet with its Indochinese allies at an undisclosed site next month to strengthen military and political solidarity prior to President Nixon's visit to Peking, according to Communist diplomatic sources.

The meeting, the sources said Sunday, will include representatives from Hanoi, the Viet Cong, the Communist Laotian forces Pathet Lao, and Prince Norodom Sihanouk's Cambodian National United Front. Sihanouk was ousted as chief of state in Cambodia in 1970 and is in exile in China.

The purpose of the meeting is to confront Nixon with a solid military and political front when he meets with Premier Chou En-lai and other Chinese leaders during his China trip Feb. 21-28.

Malta Pact?

VALETTA, Malta (UPI) — Jubilant Maltese said today they were certain a new agreement on British military bases was just around the corner, but British military sources said they had no new orders and continued to pack.

He said he lifted his "pay-up-or-get-out" ultimatum only six hours before deadline Saturday because the talks had shown "evidence of the possibility of a new agreement on defense facilities being reached."

Given Plaque

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mrs. Daniel A. Mitrione of Richmond, Ind., widow of the foreign aid adviser who was killed by Uruguayan terrorists in 1970, today was given a plaque by a police official from Uruguay honoring her husband.

Basting is as important to the finished product you have sewn as practically any other step. Clothing fits best if it has been carefully put together. But basting can be a drag. A good way to get a lot done at a time is to pin the material you are basting to a pillow. Hold the pillow in your lap. This leaves both hands free to work. If you have a large pillow, you can get a great amount of basting done in very little time!

Find everything you need for sewing in very little time at FABRIC LAND, 836 4th St. We always stock a complete selection of all types of fabric plus buttons and accessories and have a wide choice of drapery and upholstery material. Lebanon Refuses To Mass Troops

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Beirut newspaper An Natar said today Lebanon turned down an offer from three countries last week to send troops to help stem Israeli border attacks because a massing of Arab troops could make the situation more explosive.

The newspaper said the offer was made by Libya, Algerij and Syria after Israel launched two strikes into Lebanon to stop guerrilla attacks into Israel.

A guerrilla official said Sunday Palestinian guerrillas operating from Lebanon had decided to slow down their activities.

"In the present circumstances, it is wise to cool down. It is no secret that Israel has serious plans to occupy South Lebanon. We cannot give it a pretext to do so," the guerrilla said.

In Tel Aviv, a national radio commentator said today the climate for Middle East peace negotiations has never been better than in recent years.

The commentary was broadcast as two newspapers reported the United States had shown a willingness to accept Israel's conditions for entering talks on reopening the Suez Canal under a partial settlement with Egypt.

President Anwar Sadat Sunday named Aziz Sidky, 51, as premier replacing veteran diplomat Mahmoud Fawzi. Sidky is the architect of Egypt's industrial revolution and the men he named to his cabinet tended to be technical experts rather than politicians.

The big loser in the shuffle appears to be Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad, the man who led Egypt's diplomatic efforts for a peace settlement with Israel for the past four years. While Fawzi was named a vice president and presidential adviser on foreign affairs, Riad so far had no new post.

The new foreign minister was Murad Ghaleb, who held the post of minister of state for foreign affairs in the previous cabinet. Ghaleb is a former ambassador to Moscow.

The Egyptian ambassador to the United Nations, Mohammed Hassan el-Zayyata, was recalled from New York and named Minister of state for cultural affairs.

Arabs Ambush Americans

GAZA CITY, Israeli-Occupied Gaza Strip (UPI) — Israeli troops rounded up 15 Arab guerrillas for questioning today in connection with an ambush Sunday that killed an American nurse and wounded an American Baptist minister and his daughter.

Guerrillas attacked a Baptist hospital truck near here Sunday night, firing a burst of submachinegun fire that killed Mavis Pate, 46, of Ringgold, La., and wounded Roy Edward Nicholas, 47, of Austin, Tex., and his daughter, Carol Beth, 17. Spokesmen said about 50 bullets were fired at the truck.

The suspects were rounded up after occupation authorities combed the Jebaliya refugee camp. The ambush took place outside the camp's southern entrance on the main road through the Gaza Strip.

Local military authorities said they believed the attack was a mistake. Guerrillas, they said, may have mistaken the hospital van for an army vehicle in fog and darkness. They said it was the first guerrilla action of its kind in nearly a year. Israel occupied the formerly Egyptian Gaza Strip during the June, 1967, Middle East war.

Miss Pate had been an operating theater nurse at Gaza City's Baptist hospital since 1970. Nicholas has been the hospital's administrator since his arrivag in Gaza City in 1958.

The sources said the guerrillas ambushed the car—a Volkswagen double-cabin truck —on the main Gaza Strip highway at a point where it runs along the Jebaliya Refugee Camp.

The sources said the Israeli authorities took the three Americans by helicopter to the central Negev hospital in Beersheba. Miss Pate died on the operating table of head injurids. Nicholas suffered thigh and lower abdomen injuries, but was not on the critical list, and his daughter was only slightly injured.

Hospital sources said Defense Minister Moshe Dayan flew to the hospital soon after learning about the incident and chatted to the wounded minister in the emergency ward.

They said hospital authorities called the Baptist center in Richmond, Va., to arrange for Miss Pate's body to be flown for burial in the United States.

Military sources said Nicholas was returning his three daughters to the American school at Kfar Shmaryahu on the outskirts of Tel Aviv when the ambushers struck. Miss Pate accompanied him on the trip.

They said Nicholas escaped injury in similar circumstances almost two years ago. Another Nicholas daughter, Joy, 12, sustained light injuries when Arab guerrillae ambushed a car her father drove outside Gaza City March 15, 1969.

New Schooling Methods May Fail

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government's controversial $5.6 million experiment in stimulating teaching performance through the profit motive may have failed, according to anti-poverty director Phillip V. Sanchez.

Sanchez also said that an even more controversial test still in the planning stage—to issue vouchers to low-income families for the schooling of their children—was in trouble.

Discussing the project to produce better teaching results, Sanchez said in a UPI Washington Window interview: "It's my judgment now that we will probably find that it will not do things that some of the designers thought it might do."

He said he based the conclusion on "indicators of the results" from the year-long experiment involving about 10,800 school children in 16 states.

Advocates of teacher performance contracting, which was strongly opposed by many professional educators, intended that its combination of modern teaching devices with cash and other rewards for success would markedly improve reading and mathematics achievement among grade school children who were falling behind under orthodox methods.

To check the idea's potential, OEO hired six private companies to set up reading and mathematics programs in 16 school districts during the 1970-71 school year. Three other projects, testing the performance contracting idea operated by school systems rather than private firms, were added.

The contracts required that children in the special classes advance at least 1.5 grade levels. They provided bonuses for increases of up to 2.3 grade levels during the year's experiment.

The firms used combinations of teaching machines, audiovisual devices and special textbooks along with incentives for students and teachers. Awards included cash, trading stamps, prizes and extra free time.

Sanchez gave no details of initial results, but said, "I've had some people say to me that the experiment, in effect, was a failure because it didn't produce the expected results."

Sanchez also said the educational voucher idea was in peril because of strong opposition from public school educators. He said its fate would be decided within a year.

Under this plan, low-income parents would be given certificates which could be used as tuition to enroll their children in whatever school they tought best. Because this would include private and parochial as well as public schools, voucher opponents charged OEO would destroy the public education system, violate the separation of church and state concept and open doors to racial segregation.

India Could Sink U.S. Carrier, Ram Says

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Indian Defense Minister Jagjivan Ram criticized President Nixon's decision to send part of the U.S. 7th fleet to the Indian Ocean during the India-Pakistan war and said India could sink the nuclear carrier Enterprise, the Press Trust of India (PTI) news agency said today.

Ram made the statement at a speech Sunday in the town of Gauhati, the site of a military airfield, in eastern India.

He said Nixon's move was "gunboat diplomacy" and warned Indian forces could sink the Enterprise just as India sank the Ghazi, a former U.S. submarine sent to Pakistan under an American military assistance program. The Enterprise is on its way back to its station off Vietnam.

The Ghazi was sunk off the naval base at Vishakapatnam during the 14-day war which ended Dec. 17.

Ram was also quoted by PTI as saying Indian troops would continue to hold the 1,000 square miles of West Pakistani territory it captured during the war and Indian troops would not be sent home until Indian and Pakistan reach a settlement on the border.

In New Delhi, diplomatic sources said a group of Commonwealth and Western European nations were considering simultaneously recognizing the new country of Bangladesh, formerly East Pakistan.

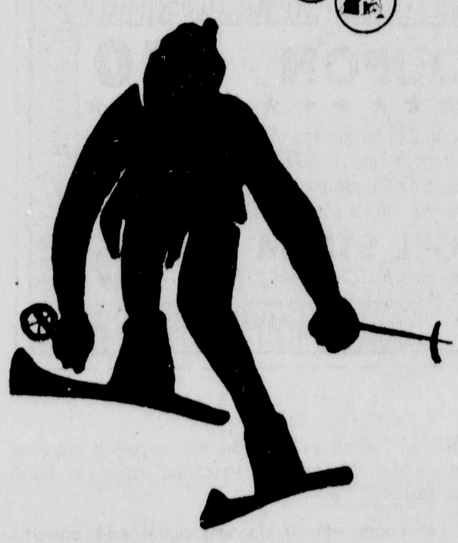

Sources said the nations included Australia and Malaysia, West Germany and the Netherlands.

(Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, prime minister of Bangladesh, said in an interview broadcast by the independent television network in London that former Pakistan President Agha Mopammed Yahya Khan should be tried as a criminal for murdering East Bengalis.

(Mujib said at least 3 million East Pakistanis were killed in the nine-month period starting with the outbreak of civil war in March and ending with the Indian-rebel capture of East Pakistan on Dec. 16.

(Bengalis repeatedly have charged West Pakistani troops with atrocities and have also asked India to turn over West Pakistani military leaders for trial as war criminals.)

Weekend's Crash Toll: Eight Hurt

One person was hospitalized and seven others injured in traffic accidents during the weekend, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Howard Douglas Backer, 22, of San Francisco, was reported in fair condition at Marin General Hospital with internal injuries.

Margaret Mary McKune, 59, of Santa Rosa was treated at Novato General Hospital for a cut scalp and right ear. Julia T. Phipps, 55, of Santa Rosa, a passenger in the McKune car, was treated at the same hospital for bruises on her left arm and a strain in her right shoulder, Novato hospital authorities reported. Romeo G. Ramos, 38, of Vallejo, was treated at the same hospital for facial cuts, according to hospital authorities.

Backer's car, southbound on the Golden Gate Bridge north of the south tower, collided at 5:45 p.m. Saturday with another southbound car driven by Judith Stern Toy, 28, of San Francisco, patrolmen reported.

The McKune car and one driven by Ramos collided at the Lakeville Highway intersection with Highway 37 at 8:45 a.m. yesterday. The McKune car was turning from Lakeville Highway onto Highway 37 and collided with the eastbound car driven by Ramos, patrolmen reported.

George M. Barnes, 43, of 1014 Sixth Street, Apt. 8, Novato, was treated for a shoulder injury at Novato General Hospital after his car ran off of Highway 101 near Hill Road in Novato at about 7:10 a.m. Saturday, the highway patrol said.

Officers said Barnes told them he started sneezing, hit the brakes, and the next thing he knew the car was "flying through the air."

A Sacramento woman was treated at Highland Hospital in Oakland for a bruised arm and possible head injury after a single-car accident on Shoreline Highway near Ross Drive in Tamalpais Valley at 1:30 a.m. today.

The Highway Patrol said Sandra L. Abbott, 21, told them a tire on her car went flat and the car went off the road, striking a manhold.

Officers said a car driven by Margaret E. West, 71, of Bolinas, was turning left from Shoreline onto Calle Del Arroyo in Stinson Beach, when it collided with a car driven by Gordon S. Grout, 34, of Los Gatos, at 3:30 p.m. Saturday.

In another accident Saturday, Donald B. Johnson, 17, of 1414 Hill Street, Novato, also complained of pain but refused medical treatment, the highway patrol said.

Johnson's car spun out and skidded on wet pavement as he made a turn at Nave Drive and Ignacio Boulevard near Novato at about 7 a.m., officers said, and his car collided with a vehicle driven by Archie D. Phillips, 51, of 291 Crescent Drive, Hamilton Air Force Base.

Teen-Age Vote Drive Planned

BURLINGAME (UPI) —The California Teachers Association announced today a "massive, nonpartisan" drive to register 330,000 eligible high school students to vote in California.

John E. Stephens Jr., a CTA consultant for student programs and coordinator of the project, called "Vote '72," said it would be concentrated in the week of March 6-10.

"It is our hope that other educationally related groups will join us in this action and declare March 6-10 as 'voter registration week,'" Stephens said.

The 330,000 students are eligible under California and federal 18-year-old voting regulations, the CTA said.

relation between viewing violence on television and aggressive behavior; an indication that any such causal relation operates only on some children (who are predisposed to be aggressive); and an indication that it operates only in some environmental contexts."

"Such tentative and limited conclusions are not very satisfying. They represent substantially more knowledge than we had two years ago, but they leave many questions unanswered," the committee said.

In a statement released with the report, Steinfeld declined to make his own conclusions, quoting the committee's summary and saying that the report "merits the serious attention of all persons and groups concerned about the effects of viewing television."

The committee said the "key question" was how television could be changed to reduce the possibility of causing violence.

"The readers of this report will find in it evidence relevant to answering such questions, but far short of an answer," the committee said. "The state of present knowledge does not permit an agreed answer."

The committee said the rate of violent episodes on TV remained constant at about eight per hour between 1967 and 1969.

"The nature of violence did change. Fatalities declined and the proportion of leading characters engaged in violence or killing declined," the report said. However, it said, violence increased between 1967 and 1969 in cartoons and comedies, and cartoons were the most violent type of TV program in that period.

The committee said that while it did find a relationship between violence on the screen and aggressive behavior by some children the evidence also suggested that "the effect is small compared with many other possible causes such as parental attitudes or knowledge of and experience with the real violence of our society."

He said 25 persons had applied for the new job of chief, and that five of these had been itnerviewed by a five-member oral board. Of these five, Balmer said, two were interviewed by the city council, which advised him both were qualified.

Eastern Blaze Claims 13; Nation's Weekend Toll 39

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Fires, mostly related to the subzero weather that hit 18 states, claimed at least 39 lives over the weekend.

Thirteen persons died Sunday when a fire destroyed the threestory Pennsylvania House Hotel in the central Pennsylvania community of Tyrone. Thirty-one persons, including 28 volunteer firemen, were injured while fighting the blaze for seven hours.

Two hotel occupants and three persons in adjoining buildings survived the blaze.

Mayor James W. Hoover said the fire—fought in 10 below zero weather—apparently started when an oil furnace overheated and the flames spread rapidly through the 75-year-old frame building to the two adjacent frame structures.

At Flint, Mich., Mrs. Josephine Lorick, 38, and her four children were among nine persons killed Sunday when fire destroyed an old wood house on the city's Northeast Side. Two persons managed to escape by jumping from an upstairs window.

Officials said it was the "most devastating" blaze in the city's history.

Three children were killed Sunday in Amboy, Ill., when fire of undetermined origin swept through their home. Their mother and three other children were injured, but not seriously. The fire occurred during 15 below zero weather.

In other fires during the weekend:

Lincoln County, Tenn.: Three children were killed Saturday when fire swept their small frame house. Authorities said the blaze started near the home's fireplace or a wood-burning stove.

—Pittsburgh, Pa.: Two persons died in separate fires.

—Windber, Pa.: Mrs. Barbara Langley, 69, and Joseph F. Martin, 59, died Sunday in a fire that wrecked the apartment where they lived. Nineteen persons were left homeless and 30 factory workers were out of a job because the clothing factory below the apartment was destroyed.

—Zanesfield, Ohio: Kimberly Puckett, 10, and her sister Lisa, 6, were killed Sunday when fire destroyed their house. The fire apparently started when gas torches were used to thaw pipes at the home.

—Akron, Ohio: Dr. Ronald W. Thompson, 58, and his wife, Kathryn, 54, died Saturday in a fire.

—Little Rock, Ark.: Two firemen were killed Saturday and seven others injured when a three-story wall weakened by fire from the inside and ice from the outside collapsed.

— Chicago: Mrs. Martha Brooks, 21, and her three children died Saturday when fire destroyed their house on the city's South Side. In suburban Elk Grove, more than 100 residents were driven from their homes Sunday night when a fire caused at least $50,000 damage to a new apartment complex.

Three Elk Grove policemen were injured in the blaze, which officials said started when maintenance men used a torch to solder tubing joints in the heating system.

WORST FIRE — Nine persons died in a fire that burned this Flint, Mich., home early Sunday. It was the worst fire loss in the city's history.

Innocent Plea To Charges

William Eugene Milliken, 26, of San Anselmo, accused of stealing motorbikes from a San Anselmo home, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of burglary, grand theft and concealing stolen property.

A preliminary hearing was set for Feb. 1.

Milliken is accused of burglarizing the George Martinez home at 45 Estates Drive Nov. 20 and taking two motorbikes. He was reportedly spotted on Dec. 12 with one of the bikes.

Jobless Teachers Go To Australia

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A group of 71 teachers unable to find work headed for Australia Sunday night to help ease the staff shortage in Melbourne and Victoria province.

This was the second such group to leave the United States in five months. Other groups were scheduled to make the same trip in May and August.

Plot For Comedy

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Joe Flynn, the nutty captain of "McHale's Navy," will co-star with Soupy Sales in the half-hour situation comedy pilo, "The Bear and I."

Deputies Find Stolen Ammo

PITTSBURG (UPI) — The Contra Costa County Sheriff's office said Sunday military grenades and automatic rifle cartridges stolen from a train have apparently been recovered.

The missing ordinance was found Saturday covered with brush in a rail siding area in Pittsburg.

Deputies said the find consisted of most, or all, of the items taken sometime between Thursday and Friday night from railroad boxcars headed for the Concord Naval Weapons Station.

Reported missing were 72 anti-personnel grenades and 1,680 rounds of 5.56-mm. ammunition.

Will Boycott Whites Next — Newton

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)— Black Panther party cofounder Huey P. Newton says white businesses in black neighborhoods will be the next boycott target in the party's fight to require regular payments to ghetto programs.

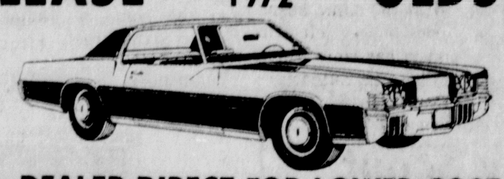

Newton withdrew pickets Sunday from the Oakland liquor store owned by Bill Boyette, a black businessman who is president of the California Package Stores and Tavern Owners Association. Boyette agreed to a peace pact negotiated by Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif.

Boyette and other members of his ad hoc committee for the promotion of black businesses agreed to make donations to a new "United Black Fund of the Bay Area."

"I'm broke," said Boyette, who resisted the Panther picketing and pressure for five months.

"In another week, I would have been closed."

Cable Cars Back In Operation

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco's three cable car lines were back in normal operation Sunday after limited service caused by a "sick out" by 27 conductors and gripmen.

Cable cars on the California Street Line and the Fishermen's Wharf line were out of service Saturday evening.

Limited service was restored on the California line by 8 p.m. but buses were brought in to carry most of the passengers.

A spokesman for the Municipal Railway said there was no evidence of a labor dispute.

L.B. Delaney, president of Local 250-A of the Transportation Workers Union, said the "sick out" was apparently organized by one man who failed to use the union's grievance machinery.

Irving Says Hughes Loaned Nixon's Brother $205,000

HANNAH M. NIXON
Irving says both . . .

NEW YORK (UPI)—The author of a contested autobiography of Howard Hugys says the billionaire recluse confirmed reports that he loaned $205,000 to President Nixon's brother in 1956.

Hughes loaned the money to "Don Nixon, who Hughes says was running a joint in California that served Nixonburgers," author Clifford Irving said Sunday in a taped interview on the CBS television program "60 Minutes."

Ted Weber, a vice president of McGraw-Hill Book Co. that plans to publish the book in March, said Sunday the book essentially confirms an account of the loan that the late Drew Pearson wrote in his syndicated column during the 1960 presidential campaign.

Pearson also wrote that the loan was paid to the vice president's brother and their mother, Mrs. Hannah M. Nixon.

A Nixon family spokesman at that time called the report a "political smear."

Pearson said the loan was never repaid but the Hughes financial interests received several valuable favors from the Eisenhower administration when Nixon was vice president.

Hughes claimed he was asked for the loan by Clark Clifford, a senior partner in the Washington law firm of Clifford & Miller during the Eisenhower administration and later secretary of defense under President Johnson, Irving said.

Clifford earlier told CBS the allegation was false, but acknowledged that his law firm has represented the Hughes Tool Co. since 1950.

Hughes is quoted in the autobiography as saying in connection with the loan that "bribery and favors are at the root of the American political system."

Weber denied Sunday a report that McGraw-Hill paid a $750,000 adance for the book and that Hughes was to get most of it with Irving to get the royalties.

Irving said Hughes, who told him his holdings were worth $2.3 billion, wanted the money because "he did not get to be a billionaire by giving many things away for nothing."

Spokesmen for McGraw-Hill and Life magazine, which plans to print excerpts from the book, say they have proof the book is authentic despite alleged claims by Hughes that it is a fraud.

A condensed version of another forthcoming book, "My Life and Opinions," purportedly by Hughes and edited by novelist Robert P. Eaton appears in the February issue of Ladies Home Journal.

Eaton's book says Hughes is seeking "an alternative to death" and wants his body quick frozen after he dies so he can be brought back to life later.

"This means that the equipment and the capsule in which his body will be kept must be near at hand, and that trusted and capable technicians must be readily available," said Eaton. He quoted Hughes as saying, "I have taken and will continue to take such steps."

M. DONALD NIXON
. . . received money

Eaton said Hughes cut himself off from society mainly because he feared physical assault or kidnaping for ransom. He pictured Hughes as a scrawny, deaf, aging man who looked like a tall Ho Chi Minh at their last meeting in Las Vegas in 1970. He said visitors were searched for weapons electronically and sterilized for germs by ultraviolet rays.

Among other disclosures in the article was that Hughes' interest in women never seemed to be prurient but was concentrated on their personalities. Eaton said Hughes thought of Ava Gardner as the most sensitive, intelligent woman he had ever known.

Irving said in the television interview that Hughes lives in "a James Bond setup," once hired a man to sample his medicines before he took them and started a card file rating everyone he met for cleanliness.

Irving said Katherine Hepburn, one of the actresses Hughes was friendly with in the 1930s and 40s particularly impressed him. He quoted Hughes as saying, "She was a very clean woman who used to bathe three or four times a day and she always told me I was divine. And I kind of liked that."

Irving said Hughes at one time kept the file card system on friends and associates and it had "a classification A, B, C,D, —and that ranged from filthy, moderately dirty, dirty and moderately clean."

He said Hughes wore false beards, mustaches and wigs to the secret meetings at which he tape recorded his autobiography. Irving said Hughes told him he wore the disguises because "there are always people looking for me and there's a price on my head."

"There's a James Bond setup here that's out of the worst possible detective novel you could ever read," Irving said.

Time Magazine published an interview Sunday with Irving in which he was asked why Hughes told him his life story.

"The man is in the last decade of his life," Irving said. "He believes he has been maligned, lied about. He has received a bad press. As he said himself, he wanted to restore the balance.'"

Slain Hiker's Body Found

SAN JOSE (UPI)—The body of a hiker who had been hacked to death with either an ax or a machete was found Sunday at the base of Almaden Dam, an earthen structure in a remote area south of San Jose.

The Santa Clara County sheriff's office identified the victim as Kenneth A.Holden, 21, of Mountain View, a junior art major at San Jose State College.

There was no sign of a robbery, deputies said, and evidence indicated the victim put up a struggle. He died from "multiple cut wounds on the head and body," they added.

Hikers found the body and deputies estimated the death was on Saturday.

Planners To Review Parking Conditions

A review of parking conditions near San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo will be among items before the city planning commission when it meets at 8 p.m. today at city hall.

Purpose of the review is to determine if the lack of off-street parking has caused parking congestion in the area. The review was among conditions set when the school was granted a variance last September.

ON PATROL — South Vietnamese airborne troops wend their way through dense elephant grass during a patrol around the Michelin rubber plantation, 50 miles north of Saigon. Saigon officials fear the large plantation will become a Communist sanctuary for a February Tet offensive. (UPI Telephoto)

One Viet GI Dies, 16 Wounded; B52s Hit Red Troop Masses

SAIGON (UPI) — One American was killed and 16 wounded Sunday in three separate incidents, the U.S. command said today. The toll would have been worse but for a quick-thinking airman who tossed a Rommunist grenade out of a truck filled with GIs.

There was intense air action, with B52 bombers pounding Communist concentrations in the Central Highlands to spearhead a drive aimed at breaking up a suspected forthcoming major North Vietnamese offensive.

Giant 7 1-2 ton "daisycutter" bombs, the biggest in the U.S. conventional weapons arsenal, were used to clear fresh helicopter pads in the jungles for South Vietnamese troops. The bombs are so big they have to be rolled out the rear doors of C130 cargo planes.

In Laos, fighting for strategic Skyline Ridge overlooking the Long Cheng base—financed and run by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency—continued between Laotian and North Vietnamese forces. The Laotians reported they were gradually retaking some of the ridge.

Nine Americans were hurt when Army road scrapers and repair vehicles hit mines 20 miles north of Saigon, and seven were injured when an unidentified terrorist threw a grenade into a truckload of airman near Ban Me Thuot, 157 miles north of Saigon. One American died in a helicopter crash.

The toll in the grenade incident would have been worse but one of the airmen threw the grenade back out of the truck. Even so, all six airmen in the truck and an Army enlisted man standing nearby, were injured.

The command did not immediately identify the quick-thinking airman.

In the air war, F105 escorting B52 bombers over Laos today detected a North Vietnamese radar tracking it and fired, apparently destroying the radar site.

It was the ninth so-called "protective reaction" strike into North Vietnam this year and the 238th since President Lyndon B. Johnson halted the strategic bombing of North Vietnam Nov. 1, 1968.

In Laos another two F105's escorting B52's Sunday night detected that they were being tracked by the radar of a Soviet-built surface-to-air missile (SAM). One of the F105's fired a missile at the site and moments later two SAM missies whooshed past.

Both F105's wheeled and dove, escaping damage. They reported the missile site probably was destroyed.

In yet another incident, a USAF F4 Phantom jet bombing in the same area was fired on by a SAM, but could not tell which side of the border it came from. The Phantom was undamaged.

Petaluma's Design Plan To Council

Petaluma's proposed environmental design plan — aimed at regulating growth for the next five years — has been approved by the Petaluma Planning Commission and will be forwarded to the city council tonight.

A public hearing on the plan, which limits growth to 500 new homes per year, is expected to be set for Jan. 31.

The planning commission approval came Friday after weeks of study. The plan was prepared by six citizen study committees and planning consultants Mocine and Williams of San Francisco.

It calls for a linear greenbelt around the eastside to provide open space, bicycle trails and sense of organization to sprawling subdivisions. It also called for more imagination in developing subdivisions and urged that the planned unit development concept be used to include parks, schools and other public services in subdivision planning.

A westside parkway road system within a greenbelt also is shown in the plan to improve traffic circulation in the older section of Petaluma. The study committees also called for establishment of a separate zone for office buildings near the downtown area, as well as development of more apartments in areas where residents can walk to work and shopping facilities.

The plan is designed as a five-year general plan to guide city officials in considering new development.

Two Larkspur Vandalism Cases

Larkspur police today reported two cases of vandalism during the weekend.

Thieves trying to steal a fire alarm claxon at Henry C. Hall School were foiled when their efforts set off the alarm at 12:05 p.m. Saturday, police said. The horn was damaged, police said.

The other incident was the destruction of 10 porch rails valued at $15 at a home under construction at 290 Harvard Drive, police said. The damage to the house of Asa S. Briggs occurred between 8:30 and 10:30 p.m. Friday, according to police.

Izvestia Asserts Scheuer Planned Hostile Activities

MOSCOW (UPI) — The government newspaper Izvestia said today Rep. James H. Scheuer, D-N.Y., came to the Soviet Union to ask certain persons "to carry out hostile activities" against the Communist government.

Scheuer, who was expelled froo the Soviet Union Friday, has called the Russian order "totally unjustified," "outrageous" and "a mindless exercise in the theater of the absurd."

Izvestia said Scheuer had come to Moscow with documents calling for the creation of a subversive anti-Soviet group in the United States.

"The most surprising thing was that this good-looking man with delicate manners is calling on persons with whom he talks to carry out hostile activities against our country," Izvestia said in an article headlined: "The Failed Masquerade —the History of One Trip of American Congressmen."

"Moreover," it continued, "he (Scheuer) demonstrates the documents which he brought along with him that openly call for creating in the United States a subversive anti-Soviet organization which would set the goal to instigate Soviet citizens to come out against the Socialist system existing in the Soviet Union."

The newspaper also attacked the activities of two other congressmen, Alphonzo Bell, R-Calif., and Earl F. Landgrebe, R-Ind., who were not expelled. Bell, it said, went to a Zionist meeting in Israel after his Soviet visit and that "his work in the Soviet Union was peculiar preparation for this malicious gathering." Landgrebe, it charged, distributed "religious" literature in Moscow and Tashkent.

Scheuer was arrested Wednesday at the home of Alexander Lerner and taken to a local police station where he was detained 40 minutes. He was expelled from the country within 48 hours.

He flew to London where the Bronx Democrat said the arrest "was totally unjustified, outrageous, puerile—it was a mindless exercise in the theater of the absurd."

Scheuer went on to Belfast, Northern Ireland, Sunday, where he said he planned to "stay out of trouble."

Scheuer is a principal stockholder in the California Development Co., a firm which has served as Marin City's official developer for the past eight years and is now the center of a controversy over control of land in that community.

(Residents are fighting to obtain an option to buy back 167 acres of property on the ridge above Marin City which Scheuer's company purchased in 1962 for $441,000 from the Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency. (The dispute arose late last year when the two agencies agreed to give the development firm title to the ridgeland in exchange for control of 60 acres of redevelopment land in the community. Marin City residents oppose the move to turn over ridgeland title until an option is obtained.

(According to Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the two agencies, the congressman put his California Development interests in trust in 1968.)

Pumphouse Use On Ross Agenda

The Ross School District board will consider at its regular meeting today an agreement with the Marin Municipal Water District that would allow ecology classes to use the pumphouse at Phoenix Lake.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Ross School. The board will also discuss a preliminary 1972-73 budget.

Youth Arrested In Auto Theft

A 20-year-old youth was arrested in Sonoma County last night driving a car stolen early Saturday in San Rafael.

Leslie Howard Browder, of no known address, was booked into Sonoma County Jail by the California Highway Patrol and held for an appearance in Marin Municipal Court today.

The highway patrol said they found Browder driving the car at 9:20 p.m. yesterday north of Santa Rosa.

The car had been reported stolen Saturday by James F. Moore of 1203 Lincoln Avenue, Apt. 15, who told San Rafael police he awoke at 2:08 a.m. to see his 1965 Buick convertible being driven out of his carport and north on Lincoln Avenue.

Thieves Strike

Stereo tape equipment valued at $250 and a $40 wheel were stolen from the car of Karim Shafiri of 54 Lower Via Casitas, Larkspur, prior to 7:50 a.m. Saturday, while the car was parked at his home, police said today.

Ship Collision Anniversary, Great Bay Area Oil Spill

Stinson Beach, Muir Beach and other inlets to the south fared worse. The shoreline was fouled with foot-square blobs of clinging oil, and every tidal pool had an irridescent film of pollution on its surface.

Bulldozers threw a barricade of sand across the mouth of Rodeo Lagoon.

Inside San Francisco Bay, thousands of bales of hay were used to blot up oil lapping against the shorelines of Sausalito, Tiburon, Belvedere and San Francisco.

Bird rescue stations sprang up at the College of Marin marine station in Bolinas, at Seadrift, the National Audubon Society headquarters at Richardson Bay, the Marin Humane Society headquarters in Novato, the San Francisco Zoo, an empty warehouse in Richmond and at a veterinary clinic in Pleasant Hill, where Dr. James L. Naviaux was still caring for birds trapped in the Santa Barbara oil spill of 1969.

The spontaneous swell of volunteer workers was so great it became hard to manage. The Marin Ecology Center, a San Rafael telephone answering service, the Audubon and humane societies and other agencies set up switchboards to direct help to locations where it was needed and to discourage the throngs of people that clogged the streets of Bolinas and Stinson Beach after the first day.

Thousands of small, humane acts never were officially recorded. Hundreds of families donated rags and sawdust to clean birds; others supplied mounds of sandwiches and gallons of coffee to beach and bird workers. Others heeded bird experts' calls for fresh fish and other food for birds being tenderly nursed.

Schools, realizing their students would cut classes anyway, bused hundreds of youngsters to West Marin. When they heard that huge quantities of straw were needed to blot up the invading oil before it hit shore, dozens of horse owners donated from their own stables. Three San Francisco co-eds crammed a bale into their tiny sports car, then lugged it a half-mile to the beach at Bolinas.

The cleanup effort resulted in an armada of odd-looking craft working offshore to scoop up the oil. Ashore, pumper trucks and steam hoses joined the battle, along with volunteers using rakes, shovels, buckets and barrels.

AN OILY BIRD
Victim of spill

Within 10 days, the battle to clean the beaches and save what birds were still alive had settled into a slogging endurance test instead of the emotional, fast-paced efforts of the beginning days and nights.

Standard Oil was keeping its promise to persevere in the cleanup, and had opened special offices to handle claims of oil damage. helicopters and "coot" vehicles were hauling oily sand out of inaccessible inlets on the rugged shoreline; huge trucks roared every few minutes along Shoreline Highway to a Bolinas Mesa dump that was a repository for all the polluted sand from West Marin.

In the San Francisco Bay, the cleanup was almost complete. Bird car activity was concentrated in the University of California warehouse at Richmond and the San Francisco Zoo.

Disagreements broke out among zoo experts, the Richmond faction, state Department of Fish and Game officials and an East Coast ornithologist imported by Standard Oil on who shguld care for the rescued birds and how.

Meanwhile, the birds were dying in droves because none of the experts had very much experience with the problem.

The Richmond Center and Dr. Naviaux had the best results. Twenty per cent of the 1,400 birds they cared for eventually were returned to the wild — a pitiful few hundred of about 9,000 birds originally trapped in the oil.

Care of the birds became a fulltime way of life for some of the youth at the Richmond bird center as a number of them dropped out of school to live at the warehouse. As months went by, Standard Oil finally discontinued direct financial support to the center. Its staff appealed for public support, and set up facilities at Tubbs Island east of Novato as a sort of halfway house for the birds to learn to live outdoors again.

The last 11 ducks from the Richmond Center were allowed to fly away in September after growing new feathers to replace those ruined in the oil.

Meanwhile, the Coast Guard conducted a lengthy inquiry into the collision of the tankers. The hearing found that both ships were out of their proper channels — a series of precautions had failed. Both captains drew brief suspensions of their licenses.

Throughout the year, Standard Oil continued settling some of the claims resulting from the massive spill. It repaid Marin County $37,702 for expenses of manpower and equipment used on the beaches.

Guy Carruthers, Standard Oil press spokesman, said Friday the company had paid a total of $140,000 in claims. The company never released the amount it spent to hire men and equipment for the actual cleanup, but it was believed to be over $1 million.

Some claims remain — veterinarians James M. Harris and John E. Bodle sued Standard Oil last week for slightly more than $1,500 in fees for work at the Richmond center.

"After all, unskilled people got close to $5 an hour to clean the beaches," Harris told the Independent-Journal Friday. He is professional advisor to the Internaitonal Bird Rescue Research Center of Berkeley, a nonprofit corporation created by the Richmond center volunteers.

The rescue group exists to encourage research and coordinate rescue efforts in case of new oil spills.

Future treatment and care of the birds will be quite different, Pleasant Hill veterinarian Naviaux said Friday. He founded the National Wildlife Health Foundation after the Santa Barbara trouble.

The foundation, with a grant from Standard, has developed ways to clean oil-stricken birds and return them to the wild within three days. This, the veterinarian said, eliminates the fearful toll of diseases that killed so many of the birds rescued in Santa Barbara last year.

The technique was put to a test in December when 55 waterfowl were trapped in oil spilled accidentally into ponds at the Richmond Golf and Country Club. Naviaux reported 80 per cent of the birds survived.

The researchers learned that oil spills caused the birds to lose buoyancy through damage to feather structure. Most cleaning solvents worsened the problem. But a Standard Oil product, Chevron Isoparaffin 150, cleaned the birds while leaving the feathers intact, Naviaux said.

His group's findings have been published in a book, "The Aftercare of Oil Covered Birds." The first printing last summer sold out quickly, and a revised edition is being prepared, Naviaux said.

Meanwhile, Bay Area oil companies have set up a way to cope swiftly with future spills. Nine companies, including Standard and Shell, have formed a nonprofit entity, Clean Bay Inc.

The cleanup firm, headed by Forest W. Smith, owns a fleet of 12 skimmer craft and is building more. it also stocks 10,000 feet of boom to surround spills and keep them from drifting.

Smith said his firm also is trying out "Oil Herder," a strange chemical developed by Shell Oil Co. that causes widespread oil slicks to condense into small, compact blobs easy to blot up.

Although it works only in the Bay Area, Clean Bay Inc. lent its expertise to the Navy in battling the recent San Clemente spill. It has had no emergency operations in the bay, but plans "fire drills" to keep in readiness, Smith said.

The formation of organizations such as Clean Bay Inc. and the bird rescue foundation is one of the few good things that came out of the tragedy a year ago, according to Norman McIntosh, chief of the National Aubudon Society Wildfowl refuge at Richardson Bay. "There's been more research in the last year than there ever was anywhere in the world before," he explained.

As for the ecology-conscious volunteers, "it'll all just come together again" without any previous planning, declared Paul Jacobs of the Marin Ecology Center.

And he warned about the consequences of the proposed Baldwin Ship Channel to Stockton, a dredging project which will enable bay and delta access to much larger tankers than those involved in last year's collision.

"It's not IF more oil spills will happen, but WHEN . . . ." Jacobs said.

A STUDY OF ARROGANCE IN AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

The Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transportation District

Chapter III

HOW THE PRICE OF FERRIES WENT UP: THREE FOR THE ORIGINAL ESTIMATE OF SIX

History has long demonstrated that man repeats his own follies. And apparently, so do the directors of the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transportation District — with even greater frequency.

As we have seen, just slightly less than two years ago, the District came up with its first estimate for one ferry and initial docking facilities. The price was $585,000. That was in March 1970. By June, the price had shot up to $860,000; nearly 50 per cent.

They've Done It, Again!

Now, the District has done it, again; demonstrating a short memory and a contempt for the intelligence of the public. Envisioning a burgeoning ferry fleet, the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transportation District directors had dreams of six gleaming new ferryboats. The directors hoped they could obtain the money to pay for them by a federal grant from the U.S. Department of Transportation's Urban Mass Transportation Administration.

On April 30 of last year, the District held a public hearing to approve an application for $18,956,000. The capital improvements grant was to be for the construction of six ferries and for acquiring and building pier and terminal facilities.

However, the District did not allow for sufficient time in advance for publication of the notice of the public hearing and was forced to continue the hearing over to May 21, when the application to UMTA was authorized. It all seemed far too easy.

The joker came on November 16, when the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transportation District filed an amended application for a Mass Transportation Capital Improvements grant. Did the District ask for more money, as usual? No! This time it asked in the amended application for $18,902,000; $54,000 less than in the original request. But, for this near-parity request, the District directors now said they could only buy three ferryboats. In effect, for nearly the same amount of money asked for initially, the District would only provide half the service it originally proposed. "There's more than one way to skin a cat" as the old saying goes; and the District had found a way to buy three ferries for the price of six.

Just a "Slight" Mistake

The District directors, of course, offered an explanation for substantially amending their application. They conceded that the previous application did NOT provide for "sufficient" land, piers and other improvements to operate the proposed ferryboat system. Even if such arguments were valid, they present a frightening picture of administrative incompetence.

Oh, Those Additions!

The amended application, while decreasing the number of vessels proposed from six to three, increases the cost per ferry from $2,083,333 to $2,570,000; approximately one-half million dollars more per boat.

The District added a request for $1,100,000 for a pier and improvements in San Francisco; added another $350,000 for a concrete pier in Sausalito; added $250,000 for the acquisition of land in Sausalito; and increased the estimated cost of terminal construction in Sausalito by $200,000.

The amended application also requests an increase in contingency fees from $200,000 to $2,338,000; added a request for $778,000 for design fees; and asked for $60,000 for a fuel tank. It should be pointed out here that the original application was based on Phillip Spaulding's report, Mr. Spaulding being the District's ferryboat designer.

At the initial hearings, the directors were told that they did not have enough money for land acquisition and permanent construction in their application to UMTA. However, the directors chose to ignore the warnings. Another interesting aspect is that the $778,000 for design fees in the amended application would go to the erstwhile Mr. Spaulding.

New Public Hearings Demanded

We remind the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transportation District directors that new public hearings are required when applications for federal funds are substantially amended, under the law governing UMTA grants.

Certainly, the District's application has been substantially changed, for while the amount of funds requested remains approximately the same, the ferryboat service originally proposed has now been cut in half.

Formal request for such hearing has already been made. Residents and property owners of Marin County also are now demanding that a new public hearing be held by the District. There are too many vital issues at stake that must be reexamined.

First, there is the question of the proper use of public funds which come out of every citizen's pocket one way or another. Second, there is the question of the District using public monies to compete with private enterprise which violates the UMTA Act.

(We already have a private ferry system operating on San Francisco Bay at no cost to property owners.) Third, in view of the District's record to date, is it competent to operate a ferry transit system . . . or any transit system for that matter? And, finally, would the federal grant merely be a down payment on a continued and ever-increasing tax burden placed on Marin County property owners?

We would recall for the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transportation District directors President Lincoln's admonishment "you can't fool all the people all of the time."

AGAIN:
TAXATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION!
Don't let it happen here.
Send in this protest.

Dear Mr. Van Dyke: I am wholeheartedly in agreement with you that the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transportation District get out of the Ferryboat business; and we must seek through legislation a District Agency responsible to the voters.

Another Attempt To Circumvent Voter

When Marin Community College District was campaigning for passage of a $16 million-plus bond issue to build Indian Valley Colleges last year, the word that it could tax residents to finance the buildings if the bond issue failed created something of a stir. Quite a few people called the Independent-Journal to ask, "Is it true? How can they do this?"

We assured them, by telephone and print, that it is ture, and pointed out that it was already being done for college buildings at Kentfield. Community college districts are permitted by law to levy construction taxes without voter approval, and to enter into lease-purchase agreements without voter approval.

No such freedom exists, as yet, for high school, elementary school and unified school districtf. They must still go the familiar route of asking voter approval to issue bonds or borrow money from the state.

LEASE-PURCHASE without voter approval, however, would be legalized for all school districts by a bill now before the California Legislature, AB 72 by Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh, D-Chula Vista.

Lease-purchase is a scheme to get around the necessity for a vote on a bond issue. It has been used by some cities and counties for some years. But it has been denied to school districts — except community college districts.

The way it usually is worked is this: A dummy non-profit corporation is set up to acquire the land wanted by the public entity. This non-profit corporation issues bonds to finance the purchase, and these bonds are guaranteed by the city or county. The public entity then leases back the property, at an annual rate sufficient to retire the bonds over a period of years. This, of course, goes on the tax rate unless the property itself produces revenues. When the bonds are paid off, the property reverts to ownership by the public entity.

MOST CITIES and counties are pretty chary about using this dodge. We are afraid, however, that school districts would be less so. School district trustees have a way of becoming convinced that their districts' wants have priority over everything else — as proved by Marin Community College District's current tax levy for Indian Valley Colleges despite the bond issue turndown at the polls.

Had such a device been available, we have no doubt that Tamalpais High School District would have built new schools in San Geronimo Valley and Tiburon which would not now be needed, and that San Rafael Elementary School District would have built Glenwood Middle School and found it had few pupils to send to it.

Lease-purchase authority robs the taxpayers of ability to prevent public officials from plunging them into debt. Rather than extend it to all school districts, we would prefer to see it abolished entirely.

The Volunteers

Every gardener really interested in plant life keeps his eyes open for interesting volunteer plants in his garden. In Marin, where we have so many varieties of plants from many different countries and life zones, these volunteers can be delightful surprises.

Just last year, we had an ivy-like vine volunteer on a fence where we had removed some sick grape vines. It grew with extreme speed, so we let it go because the fence needed filling anyway. Imagine our delighted surprise when it burst into a massive cluster of tiny yellow blossoms about the first of December.

Most volunteers are weeds. But once in a while, though rarely, these plants astonish us.

COMMUTERS DESERVE PRAISE

Success Brings Headache For Bridge Bus Venture

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Our commuters deserve extraordinary praise for being such good-natured shock troops in the bus system started two weeks ago by the Golden Gate Bridge District.

None could be blamed for getting a sour belly over the frustrating delays as the new system cranked up in its first painful days, but most were determined to give it a patient try.

Some disgruntled persons unfortunately seized upon the discontent to revive dated misconceptions about the district as a power-mad Croesus, but again most could see the plain evidence that district officials were working around the clock to make daily improvements in operations.

THE ONLY REAL DANGER facing the bus system is its own success. Patronage is growing so rapidly that its capacity could be exceeded before the expected delivery in June of 20 more new coaches. The promise that no rider will have to stand may prove impossible to keep during peak hours.

The probable solution will be continued expansion of the bus fleet for some time, a step some bridge directors are going to scream about, given an annual deficit in the bus system estimated at $4.1 million by fiscal 1975-76.

No one over said transit would be cheap, of course. Keep in mind the alternative cost of not subsidizing transit — congestion, pollution, noise, dislocation, disorientation, aggravation, and all the other burdens of more urban highways.

STATEWIDE LICENSING of bicycles appears a certainty in this session of the Legislature, a regulation that should make it harder for the state's army of bike thieves to unload their 10-speed booty.

The proposal also will call for stamping identificaiton numbers on all major parts, an obvious protection generally ignored by foreign manufacturers.

Domestic manufacturers and retailers reportedly will back the bill, to be introduced by Sen. James R. Mills, R-San Diego, president pro tem of the upper house. Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, had promised to carry a similar bill, but will defer to Mills.

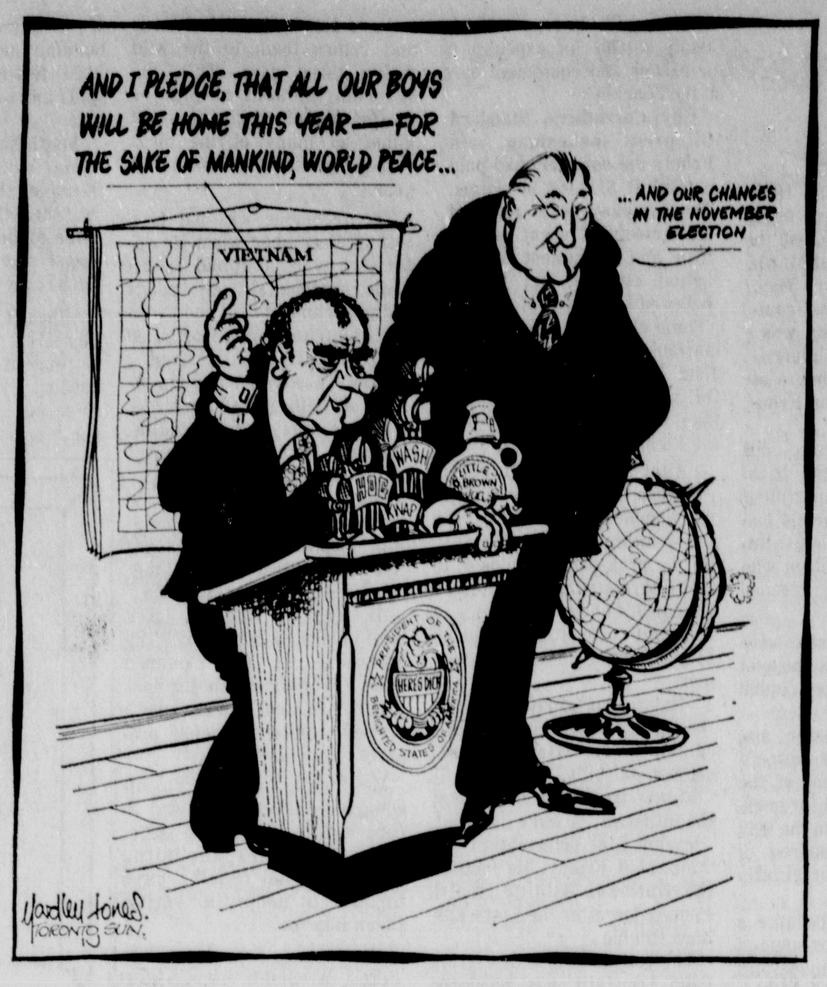

BEHR HAS A DESERVED reputation as an environmentalist, but was not entitled to credit given him in Marin Alternative's recent newsletter for guaranteeing the popular vote last November that defeated Marin Municipal Water District's aqueduct from the Russian River.

That vote was secured by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. Behr simply did not have the political juice to get the necessary votes in the Legislature.

Marin Alternative, we hear, is seeking a good rain dancer. It rejoiced when the aqueduct was killed, little figuring the district's warning about water shortage in a dry year might come true soon.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Letters for "What Our Readers Say" are welcomed. To be published, they must bear the writer's signature and address (only the city will be printed, but street or post office box address must be included.) Try to limit letters to 200 words. The editors reserve the right to cut long letters, or to reject any that may be libelous or in bad taste.

One Small Break For Marin's Future

I hope it's wrong but my crystal ball foretells a sad future for Marin with one exception. The southern tip of Point Reyes (Bolinas Lagoon) has already been earmarked for a, keep your eye on it, "something elegant;" San Quentin will be next (after the state has conveniently torn it down); Marin City will be given "lip service" over the release of 167 ridgeland acres; McNear's Beach acreage has already been sold to an Hawaiian developer; Mount Burdell in Novato will become fodder for the new freeway, and Hamilton AFB interests Howard Hughes as a jet passenger terminal serving Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle, and there's a hot breath breathing down Black Point's back. Waikiki Beach folks.

My crystal ball now resembles the core of an artichoke, one petal at a time having been ripped off to produce what is called "progress." Jets will make it possible and profitable folks, except of course that they will rob the air of enough oxygen on takeoff to support seven human beings for a lifetime, and pollute the air with enough carbon monoxide, aldehydes, hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxides to make the eyes water, and the lungs to cease.

The only break I can see for Marin is the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area. If you wish further information contact Mrs. George D. Meyer, 3627 Clement Street, San Francisco, CA 94121, or write a letter to President Richard M. Nixon, the White House, Washington D. C. 20500, and urge the establishment of the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

Beware Cat That Walks Not Quite By Itself

If you get a kitten by an ad in the papers, be sure the kitten came from a cat who had Planned Parenthood. Not from a cat who was walking in the moonlight, who met a tall and handsome stranger, and some one's radio was playing "Love Story" or Dr. Zhivago."

One of the kittens we received, I think its father was a nervous checker player, you try to pick her up and she jumps here and there.

Arrigoni's Vote Contradicts Interest

I too share the pleasure expressed by Mr. Leach (I-J, Jan. 10) regarding gaining some property tax relief (though not nearly enough) for senior citizens.

Mr. Leach thanks Mr. Arrigoni for influencing Mr. Bagley in this measure.

I'm puzzled. If Mr. Arrigoni is so concerned about senior citizens, why did he vote "no" on the senior citizens home planned by Catholic Social Services at Dominican Priory in Kentfield? This plan had full support of the Marin County Planning Commission.

Politicians move in strange ways.

Apartments Preferred, Not Industrial Use

Independent-Journal article — Jan. 11, regarding proposed 114-unit development at 66 Tamal Vista, Corte Madera, quoted me as stating that the Corte Madera Planning Commission favored an industrial zoning on this site.

I believe the comment was that the commission would favor a less dense residential development in conformance with the town's R-2, multiple residential, prezoning designation. This would provide a maximum density of about 84 units on this site.

Bus System Funds Have Several Sources

In response to the editor's note appearing in the Jan. 4 Independent-Journal concerning the Golden Gate Bridge District bus subsidy, the League of Women Voters of Central Marin would like to clarify this very complicated issue of transit finance.

The Central Marin League has just completed four years of transportation study on both the local and regional levels, and our findings indicate that rather than being subsidized wholly by bridge tolls as implied in your editor's comment, the intra-county service provided by the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transit District is financed by the following:

(1) The Marin Transit District budget. This is a separate operating budget raised from the levy of a 5 cents per $100 evaluation property tax. The estimated cost to the county will range from $250,000 to $700,000, depending on how many people use the bus service.

(2) Fares.

(3) Capital outlay for the buses comes from bridge toll reserves, plus the recent grant of $6.3 million from the Urban Mass Transit Administration, plus a percentage assessment from M.T.D.

Also, with the passage in November, 1971, of Senate Bill 325 (Mills), additional monies will be earmarked for mass transit from the extension of the sales tax to vehicle fuels beginning July 1, 1972.

Campaign Slogan For Re-election Will Be 'Nixon, The Peacemaker'

HOW NIXON EXPECTS TO WIN. Most political writers see the odds visibly in favor of Nixon's re-election.

But the President himself is not overly optimistic. He is beginning to shift strategy.

He sees the economy as likely to be still lagging by next fall, unemployment too high to be other than a campaign liability though the trend will be down.

Therefore the President presently plans to center his bid for re-election on his dramatic foreign policy actions which will be in the headlines all this year.

NEW NIXON INITIATIVES ARE LIKELY. He isn't going to stand still.

One of his concerns in his summit meeting with the Russians will be to press for progress on an Arab-Israeli settlement. He hopes to be able to say that he is ending the war in Vietnam and averting war in the Middle East.

His campaign theme: "Nixon, the Peacemaker."

BUT ALL IS NOT PEACEFUL IN THE OUTLOOK. This column recently pointed to Yugoslavia, which, after the crumbling of East Pakistan, might well be the next nation to disintegrate after the passing of the aging Tito.

Since then, George Ball, former undersecretary of state, cites the Croatian uprisings as likely to split the Yugoslav nation three ways and sees the "helping hand" of Moscow working to bring it about.

The consequences: It would (1) complete the Russian consolidation of its Eastern European satellites, (2), partly independent Romania would be surrounded, and (3) it would bring political chaos to Italy with its large Communist Party.

FIRST LADY, NEW U.S. ROVING AMBASSADOR. Mrs. Nixon made such a hit on her recent visits to Liberia, Ghana and the Ivory Coast that the President is planning further missions for her. She was accompanied on her African trip by Mrs. John H. Johnston, wife of the publisher of Ebony magazine, and by Billy Graham.

Significantly, Mrs. Nixon did not travel merely as First Lady, but as an official representative of the government. She made friends and influenced people wherever she went.

It is not to be ruled out that Mrs. Nixon might, when things calm down, visit India and Pakistan and possibly go to Latin America.

PARTY DISSIDENCE HURTING DEMOCRATS. The news which came out of the conference National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien had with a dozen or more Democratic presidential hopefuls was that the candidates agreed to attack Nixon, not each other. The headline the day after Senator Muskie announced his candidacy was: "McCarthy Hits Muskie for '68 Vietnam Stand."

The effect of Gene McCarthy's and George Wallace's participation in the early primaries is to dilute the value of the primary to the leading Democratic aspirant.

The evidence is that Wallace and McCarthy are planning to run as third and fourth party candidates, whatever happens in the primary.

PARTY DISSIDENCE HELPING NIXON. Republican conservative John Ashbrook and Republican leftist Paul McCloskey are making no pretense of not attacking Nixon policies in their first foray in the New Hampshire primary.

But the effect of Ashbrook criticizing Nixon from the right and McCloskey from the left will be to enhance the effect of the President's image as a man in the center.

Neither will make any effort to mount a third-party movement within the GOP.

WHAT WILL BE THE BIGGEST NEWS OF 1972? It might be the raising of the 66,000-ton Titanic. It was supposed to be unsinkable, but it went to the bottom shortly after it hit an iceberg in the North Atlantic in 1912.

By now, nobody claims ownership except the Titanic Salvage Co. — British and U.S. financed — which sees a fortune in salvaging it. Undersea photographic reconnaissance will begin this year.

JOSEPH C. HARSCH

Who Makes Our Foreign Policy? President Or Establishment?

The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

We have been thumbing through the Consitution of the United States in search of light on a question very much in the news these days. Who does have the responsibility for making foreign policy in the American system of government?

Mr. Nixon is in trouble right now because he has been caught trying to make a surreptitious pro-Pakistan policy. Would he be in less trouble had he done it openly?

Not so long ago Lyndon Johnson was also in trouble over foreign policy making, but the two cases are not the same. Mr. Johnson's mistake over Vietnam was not so much in making policy surreptitiously (which he did) but in making it unsuccessfully. If Mr. Johnson had won the Vietnam war hands down during the year 1967, as apparently he expected to do, would he still be president? Probably yes.

WHAT KIND of a mistake, if any, did Mr. Nixon make over the India-Pakistan war? He tried unsuccessfully to pursue a pro-Pakistan policy. It did Pakistan no good. It did the prestige of the United States no good. It makes Russia, at least for the present, the favorite foreigner in New Delhi. But do we judge policy only by the test of whether it is successful?

The Constitution specifically authorizes the President to make treaties subject to approval by two-thirds of the Senate. And it says that he appoints ambassadors, subject to confirmation in the Senate. Nowhere does it specifically say that the President is to make foreign policy. But nowhere does it say that anyone else should make foreign policy.

So the Constitution is ambiguous. And so also is the record. Many a President has made historic foreign policy off his own bat and without consulting the Senate, or public opinion.

President Monroe coined the "Monroe Doctrine" without anyone at the time being really aware that he had done anything interesting. Teddy Roosevelt started a revolution in Colombia and grabbed the Panama Canal out of the turmoil without consulting the Senate, or public opinion. Secretary of State Seward bought Alaska on his own — although whether that was making foreign or domestic policy is a moot point.

THE SENATE IS NOT equipped to conduct foreign policy, although it can and sometimes does act as a sort of court of review for policies initiated by the White House or State Department.

The State Department is the machine built for the conduct of foreign policy, but many a President has taken policy initiative into his own hands.

In recent times there seems to have grown up a strong theory that the President can do almost anything he likes with foreign policy, even to making war without consulting Congress. This theory was more starkly articulated under Lyndon Johnson than ever before. Previous presidents paid at least superficial deference to Congress and public opinion.

We can find nothing in the Constitution which says that a President should not do what Mr. Nixon tried to do. But he is, nevertheless, in political trouble for doing it. The probable reason is that he was trying to make pro-Pakistan policy in a pro-India community.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT definitely favored India. There is an identifiable pro-India lobby more influential in Washington than any pro-Pakistan lobby. There is considerable pro-India sentiment in Congress, negligible pro-Pakistan sentiment.

So, in trying to "tilt" Washington in favor of Pakistan he was operating in an unsympathetic element. He was surrounded by and trying to operate through people who favored India. Hence, every pro-Pakistan move he made was at once reported to the Indian Embassy (Washington is like that) just as any anti-Israeli move is reported instantly to the Israeli Embassy.

There seems to be an unwritten rule in all this for future presidents. Remember that there is a federal "establishment" in Washington; that sometimes it has a community point of view and that to buck that point of view can lead to trouble.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Jan. 17, 1962

Tamalpais High School District trustees voted unanimously to buy acreage of the Ottolini Ranch in Lagunitas as site for a San Geronimo Valley high school.

Marin County Supervisor William A. Gnoss switched his vote to put the board 3-2 in favor of the Point Reyes National Seashore bill before Congress.

20 YEARS AGO

Jan. 17, 1952

A busload of 35 Tamalpais High School students arrived home safely after spending seven days snowbound in the Sierra Nevada.

Thousands fled homes in the Los Angeles area as floods descended canyons in a widespread storm that also poured new snow onto the Sierra.

Another Storm May Be Brewing Over Lucas Valley Hillsides

Long range forecasters see another storm brewing over the forested slopes of upper Lucas Valley.

At the eye of the storm is the Grady Ranch property — center of a noisy brawl last November between promoters of the Renaissance Pleasure Faire and the conservation-minded Lucas Valley Homeowners Association.

The early warnings are being vibrated out of the county's planning department, which on Thursday was approached by San Francisco architect David Coldoff and others seeking the county's opinion on what could and could not be built on the 1,100-acre ranch.

Coldoff, who reportedly had some vague notion about one of those swell townhouse-apartment complexes, was told low-density, single-family homes were about all that might be received with some favor. The planning department, still smarting from the Renaissance Faire crossfire, went no further.

ON THE SAME DAY, by coincidence, the Lucas Valley Homeowners Association forwarded a letter to the planners requesting rezoning of the 1,100-acre Grady Ranch plus some 1,700 acres of nearby property.

It's the association's opinion that the choice property surrounding its community ought to be developed allowing one home per 10 acres. At the most, one home per three or four acres.

The homeowners cite the proposed countywide general plan as calling for preservation of the hillsides as open space — a precedent already being established by the association's planned purchase and preservation of the Nunes Ranch.

The present zoning on the property is limited agricultural (A-2), which means a minimum lot of two acres per home.

The association's proposed rezoning is expected to be considered at the planning commission meeting of Feb. 28. When architect Coldoff's plans will surface is not known.

ELSEWHERE AROUND the Land of Oz, Supervisor Michael Wornum's proposal for a "garbage can tax" to finance recycling of bottles, cans and old newspapers might have lifted the hearts of Marin County's environmentalists but it brought the wrath of one resident.

"As a resident of Marin County I refuse to pay the garbage can tax if it ever becomes effective," she wrote.

"... seems to me there are other ways of recycling without taxing the people. If it ever comes to that, I personally will deduct the amount ... and will bill it to Mr. M. Wornum, whose idea it was."

Put that in your garbage can, Mr. M. Wornum.

Low Bid For School Work

James Construction Co. of Santa Rosa has submitted the apparently low bid on construction of an addition to Miwok Valley School, Petaluma.

Dean D. Magowan, Old Adobe School District superintendent, said the company offered a bid of $257,700 Thursday. Second in the bidding was Colombini Construction, $258,500.

The work involves an eight-classroom addition to the main school, which is now under construction on St. Francis Drive. Magowan said he hoped the addition could be completed early next fall.

Two silver flutes with a total value of $600 were taken from student lockers at Terra Linda High School Thursday, according to San Rafael police.

THE BITTER-ENDER

No Place Any More For 'Chewing The Fat'

By ED BRANDER

The overstuffed chairs and sofas all sagged in intaglio of the numerous rumps that had been planted in them. Polished brass cuspicors on rubber mats were located at strategic points on the floral-design carpet — which here and there was stained where somebody had missed both spittoon and mat.

Grouped about on the chairs and sofas, some chewing tobacco and talking, some smoking cigars and talking, some reading newspapers, were the middle-aged men in bowler hats and the old men in soft felts. Behind the desk, the clerk fiddled with a toothpick. On a hard seat beside the elevator, the bellboys kept a sharp eye out for business.

THAT WAS the typical American lobby of 40 years ago. I bring it up, not out of any nostalgia for spittoons, cigar smoke, and the extracurricular activities of the bellboys, but because it represented something that is lacking from the scene today.

If you had frequent business at the hotel, you soon discovered that many of the men in felts and bowlers sitting around the lobby were the same each time, yet were not residents of the hotel. The lobby was a gathering place. One hotel catered to stockmen, another to commercial travelers, and here their counterparts from among the city's population met them to swap yarns and "chew the fat." Still another depended on a tourist clientele, but its lobby had become the gathering place for local residents with some common interest, who met three more-or-less regularly, also to "chew the fat."

The hotel lobby was a place to meet and talk with friends and acquaintances, like the general store in the smaller towns, with its pot-bellied stove surrounded by chairs. We don't have such a place any more.

NOWADAYS, UNLESS you are a member of a club, there is no place to foregather with your cronies except the saloon. (Pardon me! Make it cocktail lounge.) If you want to talk, you have to drink. And while drink leads to loqaciousness, it does not contribute to intelligent conversation.

There is no place any more to "chew the fat." Younger people don't even know what the term means. They gather amid the din of discotheque to "rap." There is a difference.

"Chewing the fat" may not have been any more cerebral than "rapping"; but it was a lot less passionate. The studied remarks of those men in felts and bowlers (punctuated, perhaps, by blowing smoke rings or taking careful aim at the nearest spittoon) very rarely led to confrontations.

Where can you go to "chew the fat" nowadays? No place. Certainly not to the lobby of a motel! Certainly not the lobby of a Hyatt House or Holiday Inn!

What kind of numskulls are we to allow such an institution to pass into oblivion?

'Antihippie' Ordinance Due Study

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9 a.m. at the Civic Center, will consider an ordinance to prohibit people from living in vehicles.

The ordinance, patterned after San Francisco's antihippie ordinance would make it illegal for any person to use or occupy campers, buses or panel trucks for living or sleeping purposes while parked on a public street.

The measure, originally drafted 15 months ago but tabled by supervisors, was requested in a petition from 136 West Marin residents.

Last month Supervisor Louis H. Baar who represents West Marin tried to rush the ordinance through without a public hearing, but he was blocked by Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, who argued that those whom it will most greatly affect should be heard.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors' agenda also includes:

RESOLUTION — Consideration of a resolution calling on the county and four cities to impose a building ban on the abandoned Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way from Larkspur to Sausalito.

DOCK PERMIT — Consideration of a request that the board lift its freeze on issuance of docking permits on Corte Madera Creek.

CLOSED SESSION — A half-hour closed session is scheduled at 9 a.m. Reason for the closed session has not been disclosed.

NEW OWNERS PLAN NEW FACILITIES

Petaluma's Sky Ranch Airport now accommodates only one small plane landing with room for others to park, but a group of new owners headed by James B. Simonds of Sausalito is planning to expand it. Initial plans call for extending the runway for larger planes, adding new runway lights and taxiways and purchasing several new planes for the Adobe Aviation flight school. The 22-acre field on East Washington Street was recently sold to the Simonds group by Violet A. Tufts of Petaluma.

Sergeant Arrested In Slaying Attempt

A Hamilton Air Force Base sergeant, who said he was cleaning a pistol at his home, shot his wife early Saturday and has been arrested on suspicion of attempted murder.

The wife, Concetta Nunez, 21, of 134 Walton Drive on the base, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco with bullet wounds in her right hand and head.

Her husband, Sgt. Guadalupe Nunez, 22, was held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bail on suspicion of attempted murder. He was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Novato police, who have joint jurisdiction in that portion of the base, assumed the investigation because the victim is a civilian. A police report said that despite Nunez's story, there may have been an argument over marital problems.

Police reported that Nunez, after the 1 a.m. shooting, ran next door to a neighbor, Jesse Ray Watson of 132 Walton Drive. Watson drove Nunez and his wounded wife to the base hospital, from which she was transferred to Letterman.

Police searched the house, finding blood on a bed and stairway leading to an upstairs bedroom. A .22-caliber revolver was hanging in the closet and one spent cartridge was found under a dresser, police reported.

Police also found a note downstairs in Mrs. Nunez's handwriting which read, "I will sign the divorce, Concetta."

Base officials believe Mrs. Nunez had her hand to her head when the gun went off. The bullet went through her right hand and lodged between her scalp and skull, base officials reported.

Nunez was arrested when he returned from accompanying his wife to Letterman, police reported.

Gate Bridge Jump Feared

An El Cerrito man apparently has leaped to his death from the Golden Gate Bridge.

No body has been found, the Coast Guard reported.

The California Highway Patrol said the wallet of Tajima Yoshiaki, 39, was found in his car, parked at Vista Point, after witnesses reported seeing a man jump from the east walkway of the bridge near the north tower Thursday.

BARBARA J. REED of Petaluma is the first female air reserve technician for the Western Air Force Reserve Region. When the program opened its doors to women late last year Mrs. Reed said she applied because of the opportunities for advancement and the great mental challenge. She served for six years in the Women's Air Force and for the past 11 has been a government employee.

AIR FORCE RESERVES

More Than A Job Outside The Home

By DYANNE FORTNER

It is not unusual for a married woman and mother of three children to be employed outside of the home. However, one Petaluma woman has chosen to widen her horizons with activities usually limited to males, the Air Force Reserve.

Mrs. Barbara J. Reed was named the first female Air Reserve technician for the Western Air Force Reserve Region in a recent ceremony at Hamilton Air Force Base. There are three or four other women Air Force reservists but only in the Central and Eastern regions of the United States.

Mrs. Reed's husband, a 27-year-non-commissioned officer in charge of hospital and nursing services at the same military installation witnessed the ceremony.

The new reservist combines her military weekends and yearly 15-day-duty tour with a full time civil service position at the base. For the past11 years she has been a government employee in various parts of the United States and is now a GS6, technical sergeant, non-commissioned officer in charge of machine accounting for the 904th Military Airlift Group. This section provides personnel support services for the airlift program through IBM cards transmitted to the Air Reserve Personnel Center in Denver, Colo.

Prime reasons for Barbara Reed's application for military status were "the opportunity for advancement and the great mental challenge," she stated. Her application for eligibility was made to the Civil Service Commission at Ellington Air Force Base, Tex. This particular program opened its doors to women late last year; however, flying positions for women are still closed. Mrs. Reed said she was unable to explain why more women are not interested in reserve capacities.

Reservists are kept current as back up forces through monthly training assemblies. Commenting on her first training session she described the other reservists, all male, as hospitable.

"We are obligated to active duty if called," she explained. "The mobility of being a reservist cannot be ignored by anyone in our family. Yet my husband, Senior Master Sgt. Raymond Reed, will be eligible for retirement in three years and we plan to make Petaluma our permanent home."

A native of Missouri Barbara was graduated from a Bronx, N.Y., high school and subsequently enlisted in the Women's Air Force for a six year tour of duty. The idea of pursuing a military career occurred after visits with a family friend who was then the first black WAVE.

"Being military is admitting you like a certain number of things about its life style," she said. "A base is a city within a city and somewhat protected from the outside world."

Women in the Air Force wear a two piece blue and white pin striped seersucker suit. Mrs. Reed has the option to wear the uniform when she chooses because it is authorized rather than mandatory. The colorful ribboned badges near her left shoulder indicate good conduct, northern defense service and longevity from the active duty tour.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Animal Lobbyist Will Be Honored

By MOLLY MARIN

A leading lobbyist for animals, Mrs. Gladys Sargent of Piedmont will be honored at a reception and buffet dinner Saturday at the home of Mrs. Joseph B. Rice at the Marin Country Club Estates in Novato. Co-hostesses will be Mmes. Thomas Ruane and Arthur G. Lindauer.

Sargent, founder of Pets and Pals, has been fighting for the past years for humane laws for animals and was instrumental in defeating the recent state greyhound dog racing bill, Mrs. Rice said.

Guests invited to the reception and buffet are those vitally interested in humane laws for animals.

AMONG 150 members and guests planning to attend the spring fashion show and luncheon at San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere on Wednesday are Mmes. William Fisher, Charles Keyes, William Main and James Garrett, all of Belvedere, who will sit at Mrs. Robert Christensen's table. The affair is sponsored by the yacht club's women's auxiliary.

THE JOHN R. Barnards have returned to Mill Valley from a trip to Atlanta, Ga., New Orleans, La., and Casper, Wyo. They first visited their son Ralston and his wife and two sons, Christopher and John, in Dunwoody, near Atlanta.

Jean Barnard says she was dismayed to see that Atlanta is becoming "another Los Angeles" with very few controls of building. New Orleans was like "a miniature trip to Europe" because of its fascinating international aspects, she found.

Her impressions of Casper, a city of only 40,000 population, included its excellent schools. One high school has produced three presidential scholars in succession, she said, one of whom was Mr. Barnard's cousin, Michael Manville.

Keep Opened Cheese Wrapped Tightly

Most cheeses keep very well in the refrigerator, but once opened, they should be rewrapped in plastic wrap or bags to prevent drying out. For longer storage, freeze after wrapping in plastic freezer wrap.

Defrost and delight your family by adding 2 tablespoons grated cheese to 2 tablespoons seasoned bread crumbs for an au gratin effect on leftover meat and vegetable dishes. A quick cheese souffle provides a nourishing and refreshing change of entrees.

Conference Announced

A conference on library service to the housebound, hospitalized and elderly will be held Thursday at Glide Urban Center in San Francisco, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Librarians, social workers and others interested will meet to discuss informational and reading needs and ways of meeting them for persons who are ill or elderly and confined to home or institution.

The conference is sponsored by the Bay Area Social Responsibilities Roundtable of the American Library Association and funded by the HEW Office of Education. No reservations are necessary.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

An Alimony Payer, 42, Needs To Leave Home Of Bickering Folks

DEAR HELEN:

I am 42 years old and have of necessity lived with my parents for eight years since my divorce. At first, they welcomed me back.

They are now constantly bickering and I am caught in the middle. Then they both turn on me and say if I don't like it, leave!

I'd like to leave, but I pay very high alimony and child support, and can't afford an apartment and meals out. That is, if I moved out, it would be into a slum area, which is below what I'm used to by a long way. (My income has decreased since the recession.)

Should I take a room for myself, giving up luxuries, perhaps even my car, or should I constantly say, "I'm sorry, I'll try to improve" when I have done nothing to be sorry about. — TIRED OF CRAWLING

DEAR TIRED:

First, petition for lowered alimony payments, on grounds that your income is down while your cost of living is up. Then — move out. Luxuries aren't nearly so important as making it on your own. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I note each year that you give the address of Vietnam Mail Call (Box 3104-A, Columbus, Georgia) where people may send their letters and cards to overseas servicemen.

Here's what our newspaper does. At Thanksgiving time, it publishes the name and address of each serviceman in the local area who will be away from home at Christmas time. Many of the names are accompanied by personal messages, or news items about the man from his family. Readers are asked to send cards to whomever they wish on the list — and response is reportedly great.

Wouldn't it be fine if other newspapers followed suit? — FROM MICHIGAN

DEAR MICHIGAN:

Certainly would. But let's hope the list continues to decrease each year! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

This is in answer to "Someone," the secretary who resents callers asking to talk to "Someone" when she answers the phone. If we had a name, we'd like it better.

I ordered a tiller from a mail order house. A gear broke after two weeks of use. I called "instant service" which is a big feature of the company's advertising. "Someone" hadn't sent the part a month later. After seven months of phone calls, all of which failed to reach "someone," and eight letters addressed to Customer Relations, Credit Department, Parts Department and various other "someones," including one registered letter to the president of the company, I finally learned from the manufacturer that I been sent a tiller cheaper than the one I ordered (and paid for), and a parts list that didn't fit it.

That's when I wrote the mail order company and said I would resume payments only when they did something. Then I got a letter threatening my credit rating, but they erred: it had a NAME, and finally — FINALLY —had someone to write to.

After eight months of no response and being left "holding" on phones, or getting people who said, "That isn't my department, call xxx-xxxx" which wasn't right either and the "someone" said "Sorry, we can't help you," do you blame me for saying, "It's about time I got SOMEONE," when I reached the name on my letter?

Please tell the secretary that the person on the line may be tired of getting people who pass the buck on phones that seem to ring endlessly in locked closets, or never answer letters. Me, all I want is to reach SOMEONE who can do, does know, and at least gives a darn. Until then, the tiller sits, I get dunned, and I'm still waiting! — J. B.

DEAR JR:

By the time your letter appears in print, I can almost guarantee you'll have your part, and your credit rating will be back to A-1 standing. I turned your problem over to a troubleshooter who is an expert at this sort of foul-up. — H.

Anne Charles previously served as Ross Guild president and chairman of its annual ski swap. She has been a museum guild volunteer for five years and is also a member of the board of directors for the Junior League of San Francisco, the Children's Theatre and of the budget panel of United Bay Area Crusade.

A graduate of Marymount College in Tarrytown, N.Y., she is the wife of Peter Charles, a division manager of Sears Roebuck and Co., and the mother of Eric, 5; Susan, 4; Jeffrey, 2, and Leslie Charles, eight months.

The museum guilds' members staff the museum, serve on the docent committee and riase funds for the museum's educational program.

This year the guilds will join to sponsor a theater party May 13 at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building for an Actors Playhouse production, wing dinner parties preceding it, and sponsor the annual Festival of Trees in early December. Mrs. Charles added that the guilds may develop the museum shop to buy and merchandise nature items and unusual gifts.

This year new guilds will be formed in Novato, San Anselmo and Sausalito, the director said. Currently there are 350 guild members.

Fraud And The Organic Food Boom

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Growers and retailers of "organic" food are groping for some way to keep the suddenly blossoming business from being destroyed by false claims and cheat artists.

They already see signs that unscrupulous operators are moving into the profitable field of naturally grown food products. Legitimate growers and dealers have been overwhelmed by the burgeoning demand for "organic" food as an alternative to chemically treated products.

As a result, prices have soared sometimes to double and triple what they would otherwise be. There simply are not enough bonafide growers of chemically free foodstuffs to fill all the orders, and expansion cannot occur overnight in a business where each item is given such personal attention.

THE LEADING oracle of the "organic" food business, Robert Rodale, is plainly worried. "We may be heading for a situation where the organic movement will take on an odor of fraud in the nostrils of the public," says the publisher of "Organic Gardening and Farming," a montly magazine now claiming to have 700,000 readers.

Rodale has concluded that there are so many questionable products now in the "organic" field that the only way for a person to make certain that the food he buys is free from synthetic fertilizers and chemcial pesticides and additives is to grow it himself.

Rodale is working feverishly to provide another way by developing a certification system for bonafide "organic" products.

His Rodale Press, in Emmaus, Pa., is paying a West Coast laboratory $1,000 per month to test soils and products to determine whether they are free from pesticide residues and additives. Farms are visited and farmers are interviewed before approval is given.

SOME 55 farms ahve been certified so far in California, and plans are being made to extend the program to the East. Rodale concedes that the program, however, is only "hitting tha high spots." He says the National Farmers Organization is setting up a similar program in the Midwest.

Until recently, most of the "organic" business was divided up among six or eight firms enjoying a virtual monopoly. Prices have been almost always higher then chemically processed food items of the variety.

Now, even with a large number of new suppliers, prices are still far above comparable items on the commercial market. Merchants themselves are beginning to complain.

"I can't sell a loaf of bread for a buck. I consider that a rip-off." He said one brand of "organic" jam sold for 60 cents, compared to 33 cents for an identical item not claiming to be organic. He said one brand of cookies had gone up in price from 69 cents to $1.19 in only two years.

The Federal Trade Commission has launched a quiet investigation of the business, focusing particularly on advertising claims. Its first problem was to define the term, "organic."

The Food and Drug Administration has run into the same problem. But it is reluctant to issue a standard because, as one official said, the agency sees nothing unique about organic foods making them different from products grown with artificial fertilizers.

WINNING BRIDGE

The Safe Routine Leads To Disaster At Five Diamonds

It's painful to think. It's much simpler to follow some "safe" routine path even if that leads only to disaster. Please don't run off to some other part of the paper. The foregoing comments were not referring to politics, business or public affairs, but only to the simple game of contract bridge. What's more, I have a hand to prove it.

A SLIGHT PAUSE

West opened the ace of clubs and paused for thought when South dropped the king. West then shifted to the ten of hearts.

South won with the king of hearts and led the king of diamonds to drive out the ace. Here is where East should have done some thinking.

It should have occurred to East that South had the rest of the high cards for his very powerful bidding. If so, South would probably win six diamonds, four hearts and the ace of spades unless he met with an obstacle.

DIDN'T THINK

But East didn't think. He knew it was "safe" to lead the queen of clubs; and he promptly did so. The lead was so safe that it gave declarer the game and rubber. South ruffed the club, drew trumps, and ran the hearts to get rid of the queen and eight of spades. Then he could claim the rest of the tricks.

What could East do about all this even if he thought about it? I told you thinking was painful. See if you can find the killing defense before you read on.

After taking the ace of diamonds at the third trick, East should return his remaining heart. East cannot be sure that this return will save the day, but he has no better chance.

LAST CHANCE

The heart return puts declarer in the dummy for the first and last time. If he tries to cash the queen or jack of hearts, East will ruff. South will overruff but will have to lead spades out of his own hand. And if declarer tackles the spades without trying to cash a high heart, East can make sure of a spade trick by covering dummy's jack with the king.

DRAMA REVIEW

Noose Almost Becomes Real

By KAY KSANDA

The Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts almost lost one of Marin Countx's finest actors this weekend in a realistic performance of "The Beggar's Opera."

Before a full house at the Mill Valley Golf Club, Laurence Braude's death scene as the hanged thief, MacHeath, was almost real life.

A device that was to have been used to relieve the rope pressure on Braude's neck just didn't work, and the masked actor, who hung motionless as first, soon began kicking alarmingly. The rope was slackened — the cast gamely trying to pull off the rescue as part of the action — and Braude was released.

The audience and actor had experienced some bad moments, and Braude was quoted later as saying he was "really scared."

Drama had turned into trauma in tmis Saturday night performance because Braude and director William Douglas had decided to adjust the device — a chain hidden inside the rope and capable of being operated from inside Braude's cloak — for "greater realism."

The show carried on with the actor shaken, and the villain, MacHeath, obviously reprieved. Producer Sali Liberman said later the production crew would make new adjustments on the rope device to insure Braude's safety.

The show is an adaptation of "The Beggar's Opera," a play by the English poet, John Gay. He wrote his comedy in 1728 as a hilarious take-off on Italian opera, and also as a serious criticism of London life. "The Threepenny Opera," by Kurt Weill and Bertolt Brecht, is based on the same story.

The story concerns the "low life" of London, principally thieves and whores who receive death sentences for shop lifting, while murderers are fined and freed.

MacHeath was the cleverest of the lot, but made the fatal mistake of marrying not one pretty girl, but two. Worse yet, sweet Polly (Julie Stafford) was the daughter of his fence for stolen property.

The conniving Mr. and Mrs. Peachum saw marriage as a disgrace to their way of life, and widowhood as financial gain. With this appraisal, they set about to plot his doom, with the rest of his gang's assistance — the theme being, no honor among thieves.

This is all played out with a lot of prancing about, quite a bit of incoherent English ballad singing, and carrying on from the cast of beat-burlesque whores. They are the wildest-looking dames this side of blue movies.

The reality of it all does not come across in the players. All the characters are overdrawn. The ingenue lead, played by Julie Stafford, moves andsings like a wooden doll, while Ann Ayers, as Mrs. Peachum, seduces young Filch (Charles Monroe) with a lasciviousness that is backroom burlesque. Finesse is missing, along with charm.

Mel Berman as Mr. Peachum, and Lorraine Helm as Lucy Lockit seem lost in the play that becomes more sassy sex than social statement. Such showmanship is more sad than funny, but perhaps, this is the story they want to tell.

Performances run every Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. thru Feb. 19, with the exception of Feb. 4, at the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts, 267 Buena Vista Avenue.

Gym Class Change Before Trustees

The Tamalpais High School District board will discuss student efforts to change physical education offerings at its regular meeting today.

The board will meet at 7 p.m. in the new student center at Sir Francis Drake High School.

The executive council and the general assembly of the Tamalpais High School student government last month recommended that physical education classes be less structured, less military and less competitive. The students said they wanted an independent study program.

Since that decision was announced in a letter to the board, the Drake executive council has supported the Tam stand, while the physical educaoion staff at Tamalpais has written defending the existing program.

Expected to speak at the meeting in addition to students are Genevie Dexter, a consultant with the state Department of Education, and physical education teachers from each district school.

The board also is expected to appoint a 10-member citizen advisory group and to adopt a resolution opposing taxation of unused school sites. The district has three sites that may be taxed under a law enacted last year.

Younger's View On Death Penalty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— State Attorney General Evelle J. Younger said Sunday night that he "personally favors" the death penalty in some instances.

But, during a television news program (Newsmaker 72, KPIX), Younger did not specify when he felt the penalty was appropriate.

He also said he favored putting the issue before the state's voters in a referendum.

Perhaps 60 per cent of the voters favor keeping the death penalty, he said.

'Mame' Producer

MUSIC REVIEW

A Powerful Performance Of Verdi By Combined Choirs

By ROBERT M. NESS

Dr. S. Drummond Wolff directed 250 voices of the combined College of Marin Collegiate and Community choirs in a powerful performance of Verdi's mighty "Requiem" last night to an overflow audience of about 800 at the college's Fine Arts Theater.

Soprano Meg Broughton, contralto Arlene White, tenor Paul Raabe and bass Richard Clark sang the solo parts. Organist Arthur Hills and a professional orchestra of about 30 members supplied the accompaniment.

In this work, Verdi uses the dramatically picturesque orchestration and the impassioned vocal lines of the operatic idiom to express the intense pathos man associates with death. Tempered with extreme solemnity, as it was last night, the work can become an uniquely personal and powerful musical expression.

Large crescendos, enormous fortes and expressive diminuendos were all natural and effectively realized. The balance of voices and precise rhythmic articulation were exceptional for such a large group. The choir and soloists responded to director Wolff's every move with intense musical feeling.

Whether in the dreadful "Dies Irae" or in the glorious fugal "Sanctus," the chorus was at all times the controlling and most impressive factor of the evening.

Though they were often overpowered by the orchestra, the soloists worked very well with the choir and as a solo ensemble.

Often soaring above both the choir and orchestra with expressive phrases, Paul Raabe's strong clear tenor voice was convincing throughout.

Contralto Arlene White replaced Donna Petersen, who had to cancel her performance because of illness. Though Miss White learned her part on just a week's notice, shd sang with confidence and conviction. HJer warm voice was as beautiful in the ensembles as it was in her powerful solo, "Liber scriptus."

Soprano Meg Broughton and bass Richard Clark, likewise, sang with musical sensitivity. While Miss Broughton's voice was not as strong as the others, she sang with extreme expression. Her delicate "Libera me" solo was breathtaking.

Folsom Closing Plan Attacked

FOLSOM (UPI) —The closing of rock-walled Folsom Prison would be a "serious economic blow" to this community, Mayor Jack Kipp has warned.

He said the city would lose about $40,000 a year in revenue if the 92-year-old maximum security prison is shut down as recommended last week by some members of a Senate Prison Study Committee.

Kipp said Sunday that is how much the city stands to lose in state gasoline tax revenues, motor vehicle in-lieu taxes and cigarette taxes, which are parceled out on the basis of population.

A Familiar Role

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Delbert Mann will direct "Ben Franklin, American," an hour television special starring Fredd Wayne in the role he has played for many years in a oneman stage show.

Loss of Taxable Land Due Study

The loss from tax rolls of 1,000 acres being annexed to the Marin Municipal Water District will be discussed by the Nicasio School district board at an 8 p.m. meeting Thursday at the school. school.

The school district will lose $1,042 in taxes presently paid by the water district on the 1,000 acres which the water district already owns.

The property includes Nicasio Reservoir.

The school board meeting was scheduled for last Wednesday but was postponed for lack of a quorum.

Leslie Uggams Inks

Children Poisoned By Methadone

CHICAGO (UPI)—Accidental poisoning of children with methadone is becoming a serious side effect of the drug's availability for treating narcotics addicts, an article in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association said.

Three Detroit physicians reported 18 children under 7 accidentally took the drug. One child died. In each case, the doctors said, a friend or relative was under methadone therapy for heroin addiction.

Four Feared Dead On Sunken Ship

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The German freighter Marie Lehmann sprang a leak during the night and sank, apparently with four men aboard, authorities said today.

Four other crewmembers were rescued but the four listed as missing were believed to have stayed aboard the 800-ton vessel.

What makes your heart beat?

The answer: a chemical reaction within the muscle itself –which depends on calcium. Which you get mainly from milk. And that's only one reason to drink two glasses of milk a day. For still others, read on:

You need calcium for more than just building bones while you're growing up. In fact, you need calcium every time you move a muscle. Including the most important muscle of all: your heart.

And: without calcium, your nerves couldn't send the signals that let you see, hear, feel, and smell.

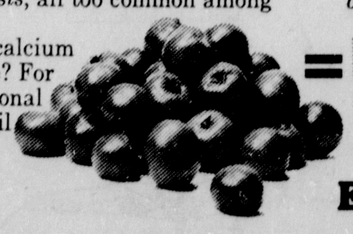

Without calcium, your blood would not clot.

And without calcium–in a steady supply throughout your life–your bones can become weak and brittle, a condition called osteoporosis, all too common among the elderly.

How much calcium should you have? For adults, the National Research Council recommends 800 milligrams a day: about as much as you get in a normal diet if it includes two glasses of milk. (Children need more: up to age nine, 3 glasses; up to eighteen, 4 glasses. Pregnant and nursing women also need the calcium in 4 glasses of milk daily.)

Can you get enough calcium from other foods? Not easily. For example, two glasses of milk give you as much calcium as each of the following:

24 tomatoes, 11 oranges, 4 cups of broccoli, 1½ pints of ice cream, 18 bowls of vegetable soup, 2½ cups of cottage cheese.

Every body needs calcium.

Every body needs milk.

Jack Nicklaus Triumphs In Bing Crosby Playoff

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus is going home to Florida today to rest and count his money after proving for the umpteenth time that he is the most dominant figure in pro golf.

Nicklaus, playing the final 18 holes in a group with Johnny Miller Sunday, let the San Francisco youngster off the hook twice. But when it came down to the final time, he closed things out in a hurry.

It all came about when Nicklaus and Miller tied after 72 holes of regulation play in the $140,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am. Neither played all that well in the final round, Jack shooting a one-over 73 and John a two-over 74.

Nicklaus could have wound things up either on the 16th or 18th holes but missed tries for birdy putts at both to give the struggling Miller a chance. It was a carbon-copy of the match up earlier Sunday between the veteran Cowboys and young Dolphins in the Super Bowl.

With darkness closing in on the Monterey Peninsula and time only for probably one hole of sudden death play, Nicklaus put his nine-iron shot second shot 18 feet from the pin at 15 and then rolled home the putt to wind things up.

"I didn't think we could have gone much farther if we stayed tied," said Nicklaus, who values his free time more than most people. Had they remained tied, play more than likely would have been continued today.

Instead, Jack is heading home while Miller, who lives only 100 miles up the road from Pebble Beach, wonders why he didn't win. While Miller will play later this week in the Tucson Open, Jack will take things easy before returning to action in the San Diego Open.

"I may also go to Hawaii," said Jack, "but that depends on whether I can take the family with me. I'll definitely play in the Hope Classic after Hawaii, though."

Nicklaus and Miller finished 72 holes with four-under-par scores of 284. Jack played two rounds at Pebble Beach in 71-73 while Miller played the same course in 67-74. Neither feels Pebble will be a pushover by any means at the U.S. Open in June and in fact may be tougher than it is now.

"Pebble usually is a wet course," said Nicklaus. "It was dry for this year's Crosby and should be even drier in June. I think that will make it a very difficult course to putt on."

The Crosby winner's check amounted to $28,000 and put Nicklaus alongside George Archer in the race for the 1972 money winning title. Jack won the title hands down in 1971 with $244,000. He also won four of the last five eventf he played in and now that streak has been stretched to five victories in six events over only a four-month span.

Nicklaus didn't play well in the Crosby. No one else did for that matter but still Jack was the winner when all the firing was over. That probably tells more about the man than anything else.

Lee Trevino, who says Nicklaus is the greatest player in the history of the game, had a shot at the Crosby title in the final round but fell away as did Tony Jacklin and Herb Hooper.

Trevino finished all alone in third place with a two-under 286 score that won him $9,900. Lee, who trailed Nicklaus in the money race last year by $13,000, picked up an additional $3,500 in the Crosby when he teamed with Don Schwab to win the Pro-am with a best-ball score 32-under-par 256. Miller's second place finish was worth $16,000. — Napa's Ron Cerrudo carded a 290.

Trevino had a closing oneover 73 while Fred Marti shot a 71 and Bruce Crampton a 73 to tie at 287. Tony Jacklin, the only other man with a chance to win at the start of play Sunday, slipped to a 77 and finished in a tie at even par 288 with Bob Murphy, Dan Sikes and George Archer, winner last week of the Los Angeles Open in a playoff.

Thus, only five players from the starting field of 170 finished under par after 72 holes, proving once again that the three Crosby courses—Pebble, Spyglass Hill and Cypress Point — still are three of the toughest anywhere.

Miller, naturally, was disappointed he didn't beat Nicklaus, either in regulation or in sudden death.

"I lost it on the turn holes," said Miller, meaning the eighth, ninth and 10th where he took bogies. "For some reason pulled my teeshots on those holes and it wasn't until the 11th before I got straightened out, but by then it was too late."

Trevino fell out of the race

Bad Time For 'Little Guys'

By RALPH CHATOIAN

It just wasn't a day for the little guy. It's emotionally great when the underdog comes out of the shadows and smacks the big bully on the block. But it didn't happen yesterday.

There were no Mets to perform any miracles on this day. Sitting in front of a television set I was cheering for the underdogs. But it was all for nothing. It was a day for the big guy on the block to win again and then strut away.

First there was that Super Bowl. For all the Dallas critics who said the Cowboys couldn't win the "big ones," there must be silence today. Dallas was far superior to the Miami Dolphins. For the second game in a row, Dallas' defense made a good offensive team look bad. Like they did to the 49ers in the conference championship game, the Cowboys completely shut out the Dolphins' offense.

THEN OVER on another network came the Bing Crosby Pro-Am golf extravaganza. It went down to sudden-death after Jack Nicklaus and Johnny Miller tied at the end of regulation 72 holes. Both are handsome blond belters and both had that look of determination as they teed up the balls on the sudden-death (or is it sudden-victory?) hole, the 15th at Pebble Beach.

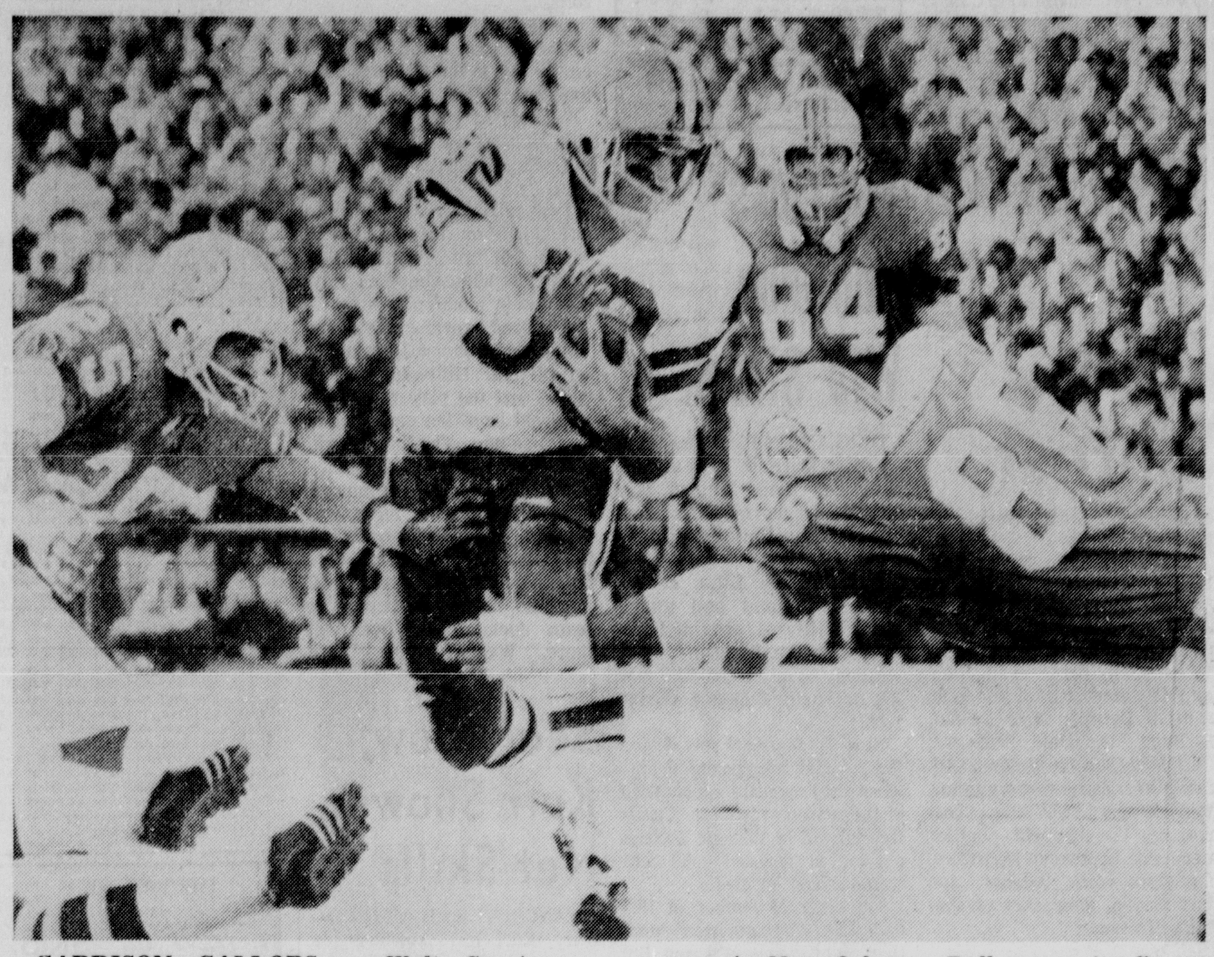

The stage was set: Would the young San Franciscan Miller beat the big bully of golf? No. They both made the green in two. Miller missed his 30-footer and had to settle for a par. Nicklaus studied the situation, bent over his ball, and putted in a 20-footer to win and strut away.

THE NIGHT before, another underdog tried to beat a big guy on television, and it was disaster. I think his name was Terry Daniels — or was it Daniel Terry? — who tried to beat Joe Frazier out of the heavyweight championship. He met the same fate as the Dolphins and Johnny Miller.

In that fight it looked as if both fighters were wearing the same pair of gloves, Frazier on his fists and Daniels on his chin. Daniels was courageous and brave because he kept getting up every time Frazier knocked him down but there shoudl be more to boxing than being brave. It was an act of mercy when the referee stopped the fight in the fourth round. Daniels appeared to have the punch of a middleweight.

Frazier might have more competition in his next fight. Two of those mentioned by promoter Chris Dundee as next possible opponent are Jeff Merritt and Al Jones. Jeff who? Al who? Wow!

I SEE by the financial statements released from the Crosby Pro-Am that former San Rafaelite Ron Cerrudo, now of Napa, picked up a cool $2,170 for his 290 total. He and amateur partner Paul Spangler, another former Marinite, missed the cut of 204 by two strokes in the Pro-Am division. Marin Country Club pro Buddy Sullivan also missed the cut after opening rounds of 77 and 79. Good try, Buddy.

SUPER BOWL

Dallas Dumps Miami, 24-3

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Pro football has been accused of being pass-happy, but write it down today that the long-frustrated Dallas Cowboys are the world champions because of their awesome, record-breaking running attack.

"We generally feel that we can beat any team we can run against," said Cowboys' coach Tom Landry in looking back at the 24-3 rout of the Miami Dolphins in Sunday's Super Bowl game —the victory that should end forever the talk that the Cowboys don't win the big ones.

Jolly Roger Staubach, the Cowboy quarterback who pitched two touchdown passes, was voted the "Most Valuable Player" award and the car that goes with it.

But it was the running game —led by the moody, truculent Duane Thomas —that smashed the Super Bowl record by rolling for 252 yards on the ground —and it was the running attack that Landry spoke of first when the time came to analyze what had happened out there on the artificial turf of Tulane Stadium before 81,023 fans.

These were the big factors for the Cowboys:

... The ripping running of Thomas (19 carries for 95 yards), Walt Garrison (14 for 74), and Calvin Hill (7 for 25) behind a brilliant offensive line that President Nixon singled out for "special praise" when he made his post-game telephone call of congratulations to Landry.

... The clawing, crashing "Doomsday Defense" that held the Dolphins to 80 yards on the ground and caused Dolphin Coach Don Shula to remark sadly, "They tore us apart defensively."

... Chuck Howley's fumble recovery and pass interception that led to a field goal and a touchdown, respectively.

... And the cool quarterback-

Miss Tuffanelli Wins, But Tam Gains Nod

Is there a home-court advantage in gymnastics?

Lucia Tuffanelli of Redwood High School must think so. Competing in the Marin County Athletic League girls gymnastics tournament Saturday at Redwood, she won all four events in the intermediate open class and recorded the day's highest all-around score, 28.50 out of a possible 40.00.

Other all-around winners were Ronnie Meeks of Tamalpais in the advanced, 25.70; Heidi Miller of Terra Linda in the intermediate school, 26.45; Sharon Bright of Tamalpais in the beginner, 26.95; and Holly Cless of Tam in the novice, 20.80. A score of 28.00 or over if considered exceptional.

The home-court magic didn't work for Redwood as a team, as the Giant gymnasts finished second with 217.25 points to Tam's 239.50. Eight MCAL schools competed.

Tam qualified 18 gymnasts for the Division IV meet, slated for Jan. 29. Redwood had 17 as a total of 49, or half the field, qualified.

The top finishers:

INDIVIDUAL

TEAM

Tamalpais 239.50, Redwood 217.25, Novato 187.65, Terra Linda 183.05, San Rafael 178.60, Drake 153.30, San Domenico 89.50, San Marin 59.25.

Terra Linda Matmen Travel To Tamalpais

After a bye and an easy victory, Terra Linda High School's wrestling team faces its first test of the year tomorrow at 6:30 p.m., when the Trojans journey to Tamalpais.

In other Marin County Athletic League mat action, San Marin visits Novato at 3:30 p.m. and Redwood travels to Drake, 4 p.m. San Rafael draws a bye.

Jim Connors Takes First Pro Net Win

A few days after he turned pro, the 19-year-old NCAA champion upset second-seed Clark Graebner 7-5, 6-4 Saturday night for the singles title at the Jacksonville International Indoor Tennis tournament. That gave Connors $3,000 and 15 points toward the $50,000 first prize on the Boise-Cascade tennis tour.

PREP CLASH

Tam, Redwood Vie

After three years of stalking, the predators of Tamalpais High School sense their best chance to move in for the kill against their wounded prey, Redwood.

The pivotal Marin County Athletic League basketball game will begin at 4 p.m. tomorrow at Redwood's gym in Larkspur. In other MCAL action, Drake visits Marin Catholic, also at 4; Terra Linda travels to Novato, 5:30; and San Marin journeys to San Rafael, 7.

Tam is tied for the league lead at 3-0 with San Rafael, which stunned Bay Area basketball fans Friday night by upsetting Redwood, 63-59. The Giants linger in third place with a 2-1 mark.

For Tam, it will be a rare treat to enter this traditional game looking down at Redwood from atop the standings. Not since 1968, when they won the MCAL, have the Indians defeated Redwood. In between have come seven straight losses, many of them close and most of them bearing on the league title.

The two teams collided once already this season, in a December tournament at Riordan High in San Francisco. Redwood won, 54-48, as Tam committed 25 fouls and watched glumly as the Giants sank 30 of 41 free throws.

"Our guards, Sam Farb and Mike Connor, won it for us," said Redwood coach Dick Hart at the time. The passing of a month, however, finds the Redwood guard corps in trouble.

Connor contracted the flu last week and was below par against San Rafael, enabling the Bulldogs to concentrate on Farb, who normally collects assists as rapidly as a farmer harvests wheat.

"We will start John Johnson and David Jones at guards," said Tam coach Bernie Schneider, "but Clifford Hall and Pat Locey will play often."

Another key matchup will involve Redwood's 6-foot-6 all-league center Steve McGee, who probably will guard Tam's 6-foot-4 all-league post man Will Garner.

In two confrontations last year, McGee held Garner to 19 points, well below his average of more than 20 a game. At Riordan, however, Garner scored 21 and put McGee into foul trouble.

Tam's Mike Dinehart played defense against McGee in that game, and may get the call again. "He did a good job," said Schneider.

If McGee is restricted, Tim Hennessy could step forward for Redwood. Hennessy is the Giants' leading scorer at 17.0 for league games, and in Redwood's 16 outings this year has scored in double figures every time McGee has not. Garner or Jared McFerrin probably will face him.

Tam suddenly has become a respectable defensive team, just in time to confront Redwood's balanced offense. In the past, the Indians seemed to feel that defense was something you had to do between shots, but they limited their two most recent foes to 62 points combined.

Tam plays an aggressive, freewheeling game featuring sprawling saves, lightning steals and robust contact under the boards. Redwood is more controlled, with a minimum of wasted motion.

To win, Tam must somehow

Marin Tars Victorious On Road

The College of Marin Tars, shaking off their disappointing mid-week loss to Contra Costa College, were in control all the way Saturday night in defeating Santa Rosa Junior College, 81-56, in Santa Rosa.

The victory elevated the Tars' Camino Norte Conference basketball record to 3-1 and their season log to 17-2.

"There was no letdown," said coach John Panagakis. "The kids were fine. They shot well, espcially in the second half."

Joe Smith fired in 23 points and Roosevelt Green added another 21. Joe Casteel had 16. Green and Casteel led the rebounders with 12 and 10, respectively, as the Tars outrebounded Santa Rosa, 44-36.

Marin led at halftime, 44-32.

The Tars will be idle until Saturday, when they face defending conference champion De Anza College in Kentfield at 8 p.m.

ON 'BLOOD, GUTS'

Billie Jean King Gains Year's First Net Title

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An exhausted Billie Jean King says "blood and guts" carried her to the first pro tennis singles championship of the new year.

The 28-year-old queen of tennis in the United States was forced to rally in both sets Saturday night before overcoming Kerry Melville of Australia 7-6, 7-6 in a match featured by magnificent rallies.

"I seemed disoriented. I couldn't get psyched up," said Mrs. King, the top seed who successfully defended her title in the $17,000 British Motor Car championships at Civic Auditorium.

"I knew I wasn't in shape so it was just blood and guts out there. But when it really counted, I played them (shots) well."

She captured the first tiebreaker 5-0 and took the second 5-2 with four straight points after trailing 2-1.

Mrs. King trailed 5-6 while serving at 0-40 in the first set. But the fireman's daughter from Long Beach went on to tie it with a tremendous rally.

Billie Jean then built a 3-0 lead in the second set but Miss Melville, 25, broke her service twice to deadlock the set at 4-4. Despite extreme fatigue, Mrs. King held service twice to lead 6-5 before Miss Melville held her service to tie it up 6-6 and set the stage for the second tiebreaker.

In the final exchange of that last tiebreaker, the two women volleyed safely 36 straight times before Miss Melville missed a backhand.

Virginia Wade of Great Britain also came from behind in both sets to defeat Australian Judy Dalton 7-5, 6-4 for third place.

In the doubles final, Miss Wade and Rosemary Casals downed Mrs. Dalton and Francoise Durr of France 6-3, 5-7, 6-2.

Mrs. King won $3,400 and Miss Melville $2,200. Last year, Billie Jean became the first woman athlete to win more than $100,000 by earning $117,000 on the pro tennis circuit.

Rules Modified

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI)—The NCAA Football Rules Committee adopted 24 rules changes here Sunday including one which will make an untouched kickoff going into the end zone a dead ball.

John Waldorf, chairman of the Rules Committee, said this would cut down on "cheap touchdowns" for the kicking team and would provide better field position for the offense, which still has the option of running the ball out of the end zone.

Waldorf said the majority of rule changes were minor, dealing with clarification of existing rules.

Two rules were designed to cut down on injuries. One, which will not go into effect until 1973, will require all players to wear mouth pieces.

A second provides that when "a player is obviously injured" an official timeout will be called and the player must be removed from the game for at least one play. The timeout will not be charged to either team.

"We found that in a number of cases where a team was trying to conserve timeouts late in the game, players were trying to drag the injured off the field before the trainer or team doctor could even get there," Waldorf said. "These players could have serious injuries.

In another interpretation of rules, the committee said when a player's jersey is torn so badly that the numbers are not eligible, the player must don a new jersey. If he cannot do so within the normal period between plays or does not leave the game, a timeout would be charged to his team.

In another change, the penalty for a foul committed behind the ball by a defensive team would be added to the gain by the offense.

The committee also ruled that any substitute entering the game must leave from his own team's sideline. Waldorf said there had been times when players would come onto the field from the opposite sideline, confusing the opposition.

The committee also adopted permissive measures to allow the use of six officials at the discretion of the conferences.

Johnson Ticketed For Japan

HONOLULU (UPI) —Infielder-outfielder Frank Johnson has been granted his unconditional release by the San Francisco Giants so he may play with the Tokyo Lotte Orions.

The Giants will sign right-handed pitcher Toru Hamaura, 18, who has been released by the Orions. This marks the first international player transaction in the history of the major leagues.

Announcement of the deal was made jointly Saturday by Nagayoshi Nakamura, owner of the Orions of the Japanese Pacific League, and Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants.

Bowling Title Won By Lu Sharp

Lu Sharp was crowned the Queen of Marin County's women bowlers yesterday, following a dramatic palace war in which she outrolled Penny Tauscher, 191-189, in the finals of the Marin County Women's 600 club bowler of the year tournament at Nave Lanes.

It was the second time the Sleepy Hollow housewife has won the event. The victory earned her an expens-paid trip to the Queens state tournament Memorial Day weekend in San Jose.

Twleve bowlers were entered in yesterday's tournament, but early-afternoon rolloffs cut the field to five. Mrs. Sharp was third, so she had to win three consecutive head-on matches to gain the crown.

After No. 4 Jackie Newsom had edged No. 5 Bea Hoffmann, 161-159, Mrs. Sharp swamped Mrs. Newsom, 189-156, to earn the right to face No. 2 Marilyn Epidendio. She thrashed Mrs. Epidendio, 200-166, and moved on to the showdown with Mrs. Tauscher.

Scores for the early-afternoon four-game rolloffs were Mrs. Tauscher, 741; Mrs. Epidendio, 736; Mrs. Sharp, 727; Mrs. Newsom, 690; and Mrs. Hoffmann, 677.

There were four 200 games, three coming in the early competition. Mrs. Tauscher had 228, Mrs. Epidendio 203, and Mrs. Sharp 202 in addition to her 200 in the semifinals.

ONE-ON-ONE

Warrior Trio Enters Contest

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two more Golden State Warriors will participate in the National Basketball Association's one-on-one promotion in which the top stars of the pro game face each other under playgournd conditions.

The Blue and Gold pair includes forward Cazzie Russell and guard Jeff Mullins. Russell will face Bob Weiss of Chicago; and Mullins will take on an opponent to be selected from the Los Angles Lakers.

Others included among the losers in team eliminations which cut the field to two winners from each of the 17 teams were such stars as Earl Monroe of New York, Elvin Hayes of Houston, Archie Clark of Baltimore, Sidney Wicks of Portland, Dave Cowens and John Havlicek of Boston and Lou Hudson of Atlanta.

Among those who chose not to compete in the team eliminations were Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Milwaukee, Wilt Chamberlain of Los Angeles, Spencer Haywood of Seattle and Walt Frazier of New York.

At least 28 of the one-on-one games will be televised at halftime on the ABC-TV game of the week. There will be $50,500 in prizes with the winner of the elimination series receiving $15,000.

The pairings:

Sonoma State Bows

The University of California at Davis basketball team shot 60 per cent from the floor to wallop Sonoma State 107-71 in a Far Western Conference action Saturday night.

Warriors Continue Win Streak

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors have a week to savor their longest win streak since moving to the West Coast from Philadelphia 10 years ago.

Reserve Joe Ellis, center Nate Thurmond and guard Fritz Williams provided the spark for the Warriors' ninth straight triumph, 105-95, over the Baltimore Bullets Saturday night.

Now the Warriors rest during the All Star break until Friday when they open the second half of the season at Atlanta. Cazzie Russell will be the lone Warrior playing in Tuesday's All Star Game at Los Angeles.

Not since November of 1967 had the Warriors won more than eight games in a row. But they've got a little hustling to do to match the alltime pro sports win string of 33 put together recently by the Los Angeles Lakers of the NBA.

Ellis came off the bench with a 9-for-15 shooting performance and 24 points to help the Warriors to their 27th victory against 19 defeats. He tallied 20 of those points in the second half.

"Joe made the plays both offensively and defensively, but his defense was more important than the offense," said coach Al Attles of Ellis' performance.

Day Of The Fox In Bel Marin Sailing Races

The San Francisco Giants are insisting that 1972 will be The Year of the Fox, but at the Bel Marin Keys Yacht Club the Day of the Fox has already occurred.

Bill Fox won both Coronado 15 class races yesterday at Bel Marin Keys, and his son Billy won one El Toro race and finished second in another.

Mark Buetzow won both Blue Buoy races. Jeff Osterland took the other El Toro, while Kari Nelson won the Handicap and Julie Evans the Sunfish. The races were part of what the club calls the "frostbite season."

Seals Bow; Kurt Shows Net Skills

VANCOUVER, B. C. (UPI)—Gary Kurt has shown a big improvement in goal for the California Golden Seals.

Though beaten 4-3 Saturday night by the Vancouver Canucks, the rookie performed admirably while being bombarded with 46 shots. Earlier in the season, Kurt allowed nine goals on just 21 shots by the Canucks.

While the Seals experienced a letdown on defense, Kurt kept them in the game with uncanny saves on Dale Tallon and Dave Balon on a point-blank shot and a breakaway.

Tallon's power play goal in the first minute of the third period with Gerry Pinder in the penalty box was the difference.

Vancouver had taken a 2-0 lead in the first period but the Golden Seals tied it in the second on goals by Wayne Carleton and Ivan Boldirev.

FRAZIER POWER — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier distorted challenger Terry Daniels' face with this right hand enroute to scoring a fourth round technical knockout Saturday night in New Orleans. The fight was stopped at 1:45 in the fourth round with Daniels sprawled on the ropes.

(UPI Telephoto)

Joe Frazier Views TKO

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Joe Frazier and his manager saw his fourth-round technical knockout victory over game Terry Daniels a little differently from the way most other folks saw it.

The way it looked to most observers at Rivergate Auditorium Saturday night champion Joe was overweight and dull but still had an easy time knocking Daniels down five times for his TKO win at 1:45 of the fourth round.

But Frazier and manager Yancey "Yank" Durham both insist:

1. Frazier was "in good shape."

2. "It was a tough fight."

"Joe's goin' home to Philadelphia and rest," said Durham after the bout. "What do you mean, rest from what? He spent seven months training and this was a hard fight."

And there was an obvious rustiness to the way he put his punches together.

Frazier dropped Daniels for the first time just before the bell in the first round. In Louisiana the count continues after the bell and Daniels managed to struggle to his feet.

It was the time for a sharp-punching champion to take out his man —but Daniels, though jolted a couple of times, stayed on his feet through the second round and the first two minutes of the third —a surprising five minutes until Frazier again put hooks together and dropped him twice more.

By that time Daniels obviously was nearly through. And Frazier took care of that "nearly" part very rapidly in the fourth round, slamming him to the canvas once more and finally hanging him over the middle strand of the ropes like hanging clothes out to dry.

Daniels recovered after a little while and sat with Frazier in a post-fight news conference. He allowed that he was going to go back to college —he needs six points at SMU for a degree —and he also opined what everybody knew: "There is no way to stop this man. I hit him some punches that would have stopped a lot of guys. But not him."

Frazier turned to him with a slight smile and said, "You think you were in there with a gorilla or something?"

Dallas Defense Ruins Dolphins

ing of Staubach, who completed 12 of 19 passes, including seven-yard touchdown passes to skinny Lance Alworth and big Mike Ditka.

Put it all together and you have the reasons why Dallas — after two losses in division championship games, two losses in league title games and one loss in the Super Bowl last year —now at last can be rated one of the truly top teams in pro football history.

Landry, naturally, was calm and quiet. You would say he was "businesslike," but the emotion was shining through the softly-delivered words.

"It was determination," he said. "We were all so determined no one could stop us. I'm especially happy for fellows like Bob Lilly and Chuck Howley who have been with the team so long."

Landry did not say what the squad talked about at halftime when they were holding a 10-3 lead, but he admitted the Cowboys were "keyed very high when we went back on the field to receive the kickoff." The Cowboys took that kickoff and drove 71 yards in eight plays for another touchdown, scored by Thomas on a three-yard romp through left tackle standing up.

"That touchdown drive was it," said Landry. "That settled it. After that touchdown, we all had great confidence we would win it."

The Cowboys had taken a 3-0 lead in the first period on a nine-yard field goal by Mike Clark. That drive started with Howley's recovery of a fumble by Larry Csonka at midfield — the first fumble all year long by the Dolphin running star.

It went to 10-0 late in the second period when a 76-yard drive in 11 plays ended with Staubach hitting Alworth just over the goal line at the left flag, beating cornerback Curt Johnson —only the second TD pass all year for Alworth.

Tie salesman Garo Yepremian, who was short with a 49-yard field goal attempt earlier, booted a 31-yarder with four seconds left in the first half for what turned out to be the only Miami score of the day.

After Thomas' touchdown made it 17-3, the Cowboys added a final TD early in the fourth period. Howley picked off a Bob Griese pass on the 50-yard line and hauled it back to the Miami nine before getting tangled in his own feet and falling —an event that made him boiling mad. Staubach's pass to Ditka in the right corner of the end zone capped that.

Thinking ahead was MVP Staubach. Next year he wants to convince Landry to let him call the plays instead of sending them in from the sidelines.

"After winning 10 straight games this way, it may be hard to convince him to change," said Staubach.

curb the excesses which led to 25 fouls in their December meeting, while still retaining its sharp edge of aggressiveness. Redwood must recreate the calm rhythm which came so easily before the San Rafael game.

San Rafael, meanwhile, must try to avoid a letdown against San Marin. The Bulldogs played a very consistent game against Redwood, leading throughout, apparently conquering a tendency to be erratic that plagued them in non-league and early league play.

Drake, which upset Terra Linda Friday by pressing, running and shooting with great flair, faces a muscular Marin Catholic team that has dropped two straight. Marin Catholic will be vulnerable to Drake's speed, but hopes to compensate by controlling the backboards.

Novato seemed to reach a peak in mid-December, when it defeated Terra Linda in the Drake Invitational Tournament, 54-52. "We haven't been as good since," said coach Jim Caranica. Terra Linda will attempt to shake off a 27-point loss to Drake that was too lopsided to be an accurate indicator of the Trojans' strength.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Emphysema Much Easier To Prevent Than It Is To Treat

Emphysema is easier to prevent than to treat. This means less smoking and cleaner air. But even if the causes of the lung disease were eliminated tomorrow, we might not see any improvement for 10 to 20 years because, in many people, the damage is done. The lung tissues have been irritated for many years, and the victim has bronchitis (smoker's cough); the next step is shortness of breath.

In emphysema, the air sacs are overdistended, and the bronchi are narrowed. Since inhalation is an active process, it is easy to get air into the respiratory tract. But expiration is a passive process, and much of the air remains in the lungs, where it becomes stagnant and loaded with carbon dioxide. And the trapped air may also prevent fresh air from entering. The end result is a struggle for air and some people become so short of breath, that they cannot walk across the room without panting.

FOR MANY years, Dr. Alvan L. Barach of New York City has recommended various physical means to remove stagnant air from the lungs. He suggests that during inspiration, the abdomen be protruded to allow the diaphragm to move down to fully expand the breathing apparatus. During expiration, the abdominal muscles are pulled in to force up the diaphragm to help empty the lungs. Those who can afford an intermittent positive pressure machine should get one, because it is capable of forcing air into the lungs.

As an accessory, the palms of the hands are placed on the upper abdomen and during expiration pressed vigorously to push up the diaphragm. Dr. Barach has designed an emphysema belt to help squeeze the abdomen during expiration. All of these measures are easier to do if the lips are pursed when exhaling, because a narrowing of the mouth helps dilate the bronchi. Breathing exercises of these kinds are best done as the person leans forward.

ANOTHER method is to lie on the back, head down. A 10 to 15 pound weight is added on the abdomen to help push in during expiration. As strength returns, the weights are gradually increased to 45 pounds. Dr. Barach also recommends walking about while breathing oxygen from a portable tank. Meanwhile, the usual medications for emphysema are used.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies requests to the Independent-Journal.

BELCHING BOUTS

S. S. writes: My gallbladder was removed 6 years ago but I still belch. Please advise.

REPLY

Stop swallowing air. Gallbladder disease is only one of many causes of belching. Obviously this organ was not responsible for your burping. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on air swallowing.

SACROILIAC PAIN

B. L. writes: What are the symptoms of a sacroiliac problem?

REPLY

ITCHY EYELIDS

REPLY

Infection and allergy are the commonest causes. Consult an ophthalmologist.

CRA Factions Urging More To Dump Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The president of the California Republican Assembly said Sunday that factions in the organization were urging it to join a "dump Nixon" movement.

Hugh S. Koford of Castro Valley said the anti-Nixon forces were urging "preliminary support of either an uncommitted delegation or a delegation pledged to Ohio Congressmen John Ashbrook as the Republican candidate for president."

He said the delegation issue would be discussed at the Jan. 28-30 meeting of the officers and directors of CRA in Oakland.

Span Worker's Out Of Danger

A construction worker who fell from the Richardson Bay Bridge Thursday was reported in serious condition and out of danger today at Marin General hospital.

Verl J. Carter, 39, of Oakland, had been in critical condition at the hospital with multiple fractures since he fell 27 feet to a concrete pad near the south end of the span.

He is an employee of the Massmann Construction Co., a Missouri firm which is widening the bridge.

Cycle Registration Is Up By 20 Pct.

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Motorcycle registrations in Michigan increased 20 per cent during the fiscal year ended June 30, the number of cycles jumping from 156 in 1941 to 187,351 in the 12-month period, reports Secretary of State Richard Austin.

The motorcycles were part of more than 5.4 million vehicles registered in Michigan, resulting in a record $126 million collection. Austin predicted there would be 6 million vehicles registered in Michigan by 1973.

Strike Closes Canada Airports

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canadian air traffic controllers went on strike today, shutting down all commercial air operations throughout the nation when agreement for a new contract could not be reached by a 4 a.m. EST deadline.

The strike by the men who guide airplanes into and out of 116 Canadian airports grounded all commercial air traffic, including North Atlantic and polar flights which pass through Canadian territory.

"The strike is definitely on," a spokesman for the Federal Treasury Board said. He said negotiations between the Air Traffic Controllers Union and the Treasury Board broke off shortly after 3 a.m. EST and were to resume this afternoon.

Bills Would Aid Renters, Singles, Senior Citizens

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Claiming they are not getting a "fair shake" for tax relief, Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, has proposed a three-bill package providing tax breaks for renters, senior citizens and single persons.

"Property tax increases can be passed along to renters but who has ever heard of rents being reduced when property tax relief was realized?" Marks said Sunday.

"Renters are not getting a fair shake on tax relief," he added.

One of the bills he is proposing, Marks said, would allow an average $90-a-year tax break for rentdrs. A second measure provides a renters' credit to persons over 62, equivalent to property tax exemptions currently granted homeowners. The others legislation permits single persons to use the head-of-household tax table in computing their state income taxes.

1,000 Patients To Be Moved

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —The Veterans Administration has announced plans to transfer nearly 1,000 patients from three VA hospitals which have been judged unsafe in case of a major earthquake.

Nearly all of the patients will be transferred to a new facility to be opened in San Diego March 1. About 20 of them will be transferred from Menlo Park and 950 from hospitals in Livermore and West Los Angeles.

Animal-Feed Antibiotics: Human Health Hazard?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Warning of potential hazards to human health, a federal task force has called for restrictions on the widespread practice of mixing antibiotics into animal feeds.

Panel members told UPI the recommendations initially were opposed by Dr. C.D. Vanhouweling, task force chairman and director of the Food and Drug Administration's (FDA) Bureau of Veterinary medicine.

Vanhouweling joined drug industry and agribusiness firms in warning that elimination of feed antibiotics would cost the economy hundreds of millions of dollars in lost drug sales, added farm expenses and perhaps higher meat prices, these sources said.

But some task force members praised Vanhouweling's role and said he went along with the prevailing view after realizing he was in the minority. All 16 task force members signed the final report, sources said.

The FDA said the report would be made public late this month. Its implementation would then be up to Vanhouweling and his boss, FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards.

Panel members told UPI the report's main findings and recommendations, asking in return that they not be identified.

The task force concluded that antibiotic feeding of meat animals may produce human disease organisms resistant to antibiotics. As a result, members said, humans may fall prey to new disease strains immune to penicillin, tetracycline and other antibiotics.

INVESTING

Statham Attractive For Buying

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I understand Statham Instruments has moved from the aerospace to the medical instrument field. Would you recommend this for long-term investors?—R.O.

A. In the fiscal year ended May 31, 1971, medical instruments contributed 58 per cent of volume, aerospace 27 per cent and industrial products the remainder. Five years ago the aerospace industry accounted for 70 per cent of sales and the medical field 30 per cent.

Until recently the restructured product line had had little effect on profits. After peaking in fiscal 1966, earnings moved airlessly until the May quarter. In the most recent three quarters profits have shown sharp year-to-year improvement. For the first half of the current year sales were up 24 per cent while net gained fourfold to 36 cents a share.

As of Nov. 30, current ratio was a healthy 6.8-to-1. Shares have moved ahead 40 per cent in the past six weeks discounting much of the earnings improvement. However, on a long-term basis Statham is still attractive for purchase.

Q. I have reached retirement age and am interested in a high rate of return. I hold shares in three mutual funds and 126 Am. Telephone. Also hold $33,000 time certificates. Over the next few years $25,000 in property settlements will be paid me in three or four installments. How should I best invest for income?—M.K.

A. At current prices your stock holdings have a value in excess of $54,000. A return of 6 per cent or $3,250 annually would be a reasonable expectation from this capital. In the case of the three mutual funds, withdrawal plans designed to that end should not deplete your capital.

In each case, distribution from income and capital gains have reached or exceeded this rate in recent years. All three funds follow conservative investment policies

New funds as received, invested in good quality utility bonds should conceivably return 7 per cent. Of course, this is dependent on interest rates remaining relatively stable over the next few years. All told your $109,000 capital could conservatively yield 6.2 per cent or $6,800 in income annually.

FIRST SHOWING DUE

This Gremlin subcompact sports a recessed grille incorporating rally driving lights, sculptured hood lines and rounded front fenders. A wide band of simulated woven cane material sets off the sides and rear. Called the Voyageur, its first public showing will be this month at the Montreal International Auto Salon.

New York Stocks On The Rise

Confidence in the economic outlook provided major incentive for investors. The market has climbed sharply since Thanksgiving without any significant correction.

Bankers Trust Co., joined the small list of banks who have trimmed their prime, or base interest, rate on big business loans to 4¾ per cent from 5 per cent. A top government official said the softness in interest rates is an indication the government's economic program is curbing inflation.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index climbed 0.24 to 103.63, and advances topped declines, 861 to 596 among the 1,753 issues crossing the tape.

Consolidated Leasing was a trading feature. A block of 318,600 shares changed hands at 10, down ⅝.

Also active Bunker-Ramo, Callahan Mining, Ampex, and Braniff Airways. Some analysts took an optimistic view of prospects in the airline industry.

Prices were firm in moderate turnover on the American Stock Exchange.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

Deducting From Gross Income Could Save Many Tax Dollars

There are two ways you can make deductions on your tax return.

The other is for deductions from your adjusted gross income to arrive at your net taxable income.

It is a far better thing to deduct from your gross income than it is to deduct from your adjusted gross income.

Taxes and interest are frequently deducted on Schedule A. This is where they belong if they apply to your personal residence or other personal items. However, if taxes and interest apply to income producing property, they should be deducted from the income produced by the property. For instance: suppose you own a duplex and suppose you live in half of it. You would deduct one-half of the interest and taxes on Schedule A as itemized deductions, and the other half you should deduct in Schedule E, part II, "Rent and Royalty Income," so as to reduce your rental income. If the property was vacant and for rent, then you would still make the deduction in the rental income schedule and increase your loss.

Other expenses which should be deducted from gross income to arrive at adjusted gross income are: Sick pay, use form 2240, moving expense, use form 3903, Employee business expenses, use form 2106.

This last includes expenses of travel, meals and lodging while away from home, paid by you in connection with the performance of your duties as an employee; deductions for expenses paid by you in connection with the performance of your duties as an employee under a reimbursement or expense allowance arrangement with your employer (in excess of your allowance), your expenses if you are an outside salesman and your business transportation expenses if you are an employee.

For payments to a Self-employment Retirement Plan, use form 2950SE.

Usually there is no deduction for going to and from work, but sometimes even that is deductible.

If you use your home as your office and go directly from there to the jobs or to call on customers, then your expenses are deductible.

If you take heavy tools, etc., from your home to various jobs in your car since it's not possible to use public transportation, you can deduct your car expenses — if the only reason for using your car is to carry heavy tools, etc., and you would not use your car except for that reason, or if you use your car to carry heavy tools, etc., which you can't store where you work.

If you have two jobs and drive from home to the first job, then to the second job, and then home, the expenses from the first to the second job are deductible.

If you go to school after work to improve your job skills and if you are an outside salesman, your tuition, fees and books are deductible from gross income, and regardless of your occupation, so is driving from work to school, but not from home to work or school to home.

If you use your car in your work and every morning drive from home to your office and then use your car to drive in your work, return to the office and then go homein the evening, all your driving expenses are deductible, except home to office and office to home.

Your business entertainment expenses are deductible from gross income if you are an outside salesman. If you are not an outside salesman, then they are only deductible from adjusted gross income if at all.

Get the proper form from your local office of the IRS and fill it out carefully and attach to your return to explain the deduction you are taking on line 17 of your form 1040.

Why is it so important to deduct these expenses from your gross income in arriving at your adjusted gross income rather than deducting them from your adjusted gross income to arrive at net taxable income?

Your medical expense is deductible to the extent that it exceeds 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income and your drugs and medicines are deductible as part of your medical expense to the extent that they exceed 1 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

With that in mind, it becomes very important to have your adjusted gross income as low as possible since this will increase your medical expense deductions.

Also, it could be that by claiming what expenses you can direct from gross income in arriving at adjusted gross income, that your remaining deductible expenses would not be as much as the standard deduction so you would then use the standard deduction instead of itemizing.

Also, adjusted gross income and net taxable income are significant factors in other tax computations and comparison ratios and claiming a deduction in the wrong place could get you an unnecessary and time consuming audit.
